KNOX INTRODUCES PEACE MEASURE

Resolution Ending War With Germany Offered in Senate

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

Similar to the Bill Vetoed by Wilson

WASHINGTON—(By Associated Press)—Senator Knox of Pennsylvania introduced today his resolution to end the state of war with Germany

The measure is similar to that which the last congress passed and President Wilson vetoed. The resolution which also would end the state of war with the Austrian government was referred to the foreign relations committee without discussion It would provide that American rights under the treaty of Versailles should be reserved.

PROVISIONS OF MEASURE

The resolution follows:

Resolved, that the joint resolution of congress passed April 6, 1917, declaring a state of war to exist between the imperial German government and the government and people of the United States, and making provisions to prosecute the same, be, and the same is hereby repealed, and said state of war is hereby declared at an end

Provided, however, that all property of the imperial German government or its successor or successors, and of all German nationals which was, on April 6, 1917, in or has since that date come into the possession or under control of the government of the United States or any of its officers, agents, or employes from any source or by any agency, whatsoever, shall be retained by the United States and no disposition thereof made, except as shall have been heretofore or specifically hereafter be provided by congress, until such time as the German government has by treaty with the United States ratification whereof is to be made by and with the advice and consent of the senate, made suitable provisions for the satisfaction of all claims against the German government of all persons wheresoever domiciled who owe permanent allegiance to the United States and who have suffered, thru the acts of the German government or its agents since July 31, 1914, loss, damage or injury to their persons or property, directly or indirectly, whether thru the ownership of shares of stock in German American or other corporations or in consequence of hostilities or of any operations of war, or otherwise and also provisions granting to persons owing permanent allegiance to the United States, most favored nation treatment, whether the same be national or otherwise, in all matters affecting residence, business profession, trade navigation, commerce and industrial property rights and commining to the United States all fines forfeitures, penalties and seizures imposed or made by the United States during the war, whether in respect to the property of the German government or German nationals, and waiving any and all pecuniary claims based on events which occurred at any time before the coming into force of such treaty, any existing treaty between the United States and Germany to the contrary notwithstanding

"Section 2 That until by treaty or joint resolution of congress shall be determined otherwise the United States altho it has not part of the treaty of Versailles, reserves all of the rights, powers, claims, privileges indemnities, reparations or advantages to which it and its nationals have become entitled, including the right to enforce the same under the terms of the protocol signed November 11, 1918 or any extension or of modifications thereof or which under the treaty of Versailles have been stipulated or its benefits to which it is entitled as one of the principal allied and associated powers.

"Section 3 That the joint resolution of congress approved December 7 1917 declaring that a state of war exists between the imperial and royal Austro Hungarian government and the government and the people of the United States and making provisions to prosecute the same, be and the same is her by repealed and said state of war is hereby declared at an end

HARDING APPROVES LIST OF GENERALS

WASHINGTON — President Harding approved today the list of 12 major generals and 26 new brigadiers as prepared by Secretary Weeks and it will be presented to congress soon Clarence R Edwards who commanded the 26th (New England national guard division) in France, heads the list of major generals. His name did not appear in the list which was sent to congress by President Wilson and confirmation of which was held up.

MURDERER OF TWO WOMEN COMES TO LIMA HOSPITAL.

Arthur Ihlenfeld, 20, confessed murderer of Mabel Foote and Louise Wolf, high school teachers at Parma, near Cleveland, will be brought to Lima State hospital within the next few days.

Ihlenfeld was ordered committed to the Lima state hospital when he was found insane by a jury of six men and six women in common pleas court in Cleveland, Wednesday. The commitment carries with it an order that the insane man is to remain here until he is cured.

RELATIVES RESIDE HERE

Miss Mabel Foote was a niece of A. L. Osmon, 1118 Bellefontaine-ave, employe of the Lima postoffice and of Mrs. Bert Blair, Harrison-ave.

Miss Foote's grand-parents. Mr and Mrs. James Osmon, reside in Perry-tp and she had frequently visited them during the summer vacations, coming down from the Forest City.

The jury which tried Ihlenfeld was out only 65 minutes. Its verdict closes the case, according to Detective Inspector Sterling, Cleveland. In finding Ihlenfeld guilty of criminal insanity, the jury also declared him guilty of killing the teachers, since only evidence bearing on the Parma mystery had been submitted for consideration, he said.

SHERIFF NOT CONVINCED

Sheriff Stannard, Cuyahoga-co, was the only official to announce dissatisfaction with the result of the verdict, declaring he was not convinced the man had committed the crime.

The teachers were beaten to death while on their way nome from school on February 16, last. Their bodies were discovered the next morning near a wood by two of their pupils.

HARDING MAY ASK TREATY ADOPTION

Plans Sending Versailles Pact Back to Senate, Belief

WOULD ELIMINATE LEAGUE

Watching for Reaction on "Feeler," Report Says

WASHINGTON. — (By United Press.)—President Harding is watching today for the reaction to the "feeler" put out in his message to congress before deciding whether to seek ratification of the Versailles treaty, minus the league of nations covenant.

Word came today from a well-informed quarter that if this reaction is favorable, Harding has in mind sending the Versailles treaty back to the senate to ask ratification with reservations which would eliminate the league covenant so far as the United States is concerned and would otherwise protect American interests along the lines laid down in the Lodge reservations.

WON'T OPPOSE SENATE

Harding is said to believe that ratification of the Versailles treaty thus modified offers the only way in which the United States can permanently end its peculiar relationship to the allies and the central powers. He views the resolution declaring a state of peace with Germany as a more or less temporary expedient.

But whatever his own views, Harding is unlikely to take action which does not promise to be supported by the senate. If members of that body show an irreconcilable antagonism to the treaty even with the covenant deleted, Harding probably will abandon further thought of securing ratification. The sections of his message which indicated the possibility of thus ratifying the treaty were the result of long and earnest discussion with Secretary Hughes who has already experienced first-hand the practical difficulties arising out of failure to join in the pact of Versailles.

HUGHES' POSITION

Hughes, who is understood to have the support of Secretary Hoover, opposes complete rejection of the Versailles treaty. Two of the principal reasons said to have been advanced against rejection are:

That the United States must participate actively in the settlement of German reparations, a question which is preventing the world resuming its normal course economically.

That participation in the Versailles treaty is the way to secure complete protection of American rights and interests in questions growing out of the war; that these interests are confirmed by the treaty and that it is unwise to relinquish this confirmation. At the same time, there are numerous political provisions of the Versailles treaty in which this country is not interested, according to the administration view. These could be eliminated so far as this country is concerned by reservations.

Harding could not submit the treaty to the senate changed in any way from the form in which it was signed at Versailles But he could accompany it with a message suggesting reservations to be attached to the resolution of ratification. He could then approach the allies and there would be no doubt in their minds or in Harding's regarding the attitude of this government. He would have his course ratified in advance of negotiations instead of attempting to secure ratification afterward and failing as did former President Wilson. American ratification would call for a meeting of delegates of the allied powers, thus making the meeting of an international conference which has been discussed necessary.

EIGHT STORY BRICK BUILDING, BASEMENT, SIDEWALKS MOVED

PITTSBURG — Engineers, directing the work of moving an eight story steel and brick business building in the downtown section, expected to have the structure resting forty feet from its former location late today. The work of moving the building started yesterday and before the close of the day the 4,000 ton structure, including the basement and sidewalks, rested eight feet north of the original foundation.

All service was maintained in the structure during the moving process yesterday. No furniture or stock was removed from the building and employes remained at their desks. The change in the location of the structure was made necessary by the widening of Second-ave, which is to form a section of a new highway, the Boulevard of the Allies.

U. S. MAY DEMAND YANKS RELEASE

Harding Promises to Act on American Held in Russia

WASHINGTON.—(By Associated Press.)—President Harding promised a delegation from Alabama which called on him today to take up personally with Secretary Hughes the case of Captain Emmett Kilpatrick of Uniontown, Alabama, who is held prisoner by the Russian Bolsheviki.

The delegation, which was headed by Representatives Steagall and Tyson, asked the president to intercede in behalf of Captain Kilpatrick to obtain his release. He was captured by the Bolsheviki last October, while serving as a captain of the American Red Cross in South Russia with Wrangel's army, and has been sentenced to 20 years hard labor by the Soviets on the charge of having taken up arms against the Bolsheviki and of acting as a secret agent of the American government.

Captain Kilpatrick is one of a number of Americans held in prison by the Bolsheviki and thus far all efforts to obtain his release have been unavailing.

WOMEN TO URGE DISARMAMENT

Voters' League to Ask Harding's Aid in Move

CLEVELAND — (By United Press) — A resolution putting the National League of Women Voters in convention here, on record as urging President Harding to join with the other great powers in working for universal disarmament, is expected to be placed before the convention tomorrow.

The opening gun in the battle is to be fired tonight at a mass meeting, at which Will Irwin, author, is to be the principal speaker.

Leaders of the convention say they expect to see the resolution adopted without opposition There is a feeling among the delegates, they say, that the world can only move in two directions—one toward disarmament, the other toward another war.

The nomination committee of the league was expected to report late today Mrs Maud Wood Park of Washington, probably will be nominated to succeed herself as national chairman.

Reports of the seven standing committees of the league will be read at today's session. Action upon these reports will not be taken until tomorrow.

Leaders expect the chief battle to center around the report of "women in industry"

FLAG POLE IN SQUARE SOON TO BE REMOVED

The flagpole in the public square is soon to be removed in compliance with orders issued by council, according to Service Director Elmer McClain

The Ohio Electric company will cooperate in the work, since the guy wires are over the company's high voltage lines and unless precautions are taken, accidents may result.

McClain say he believes he can get the work done for $75.

HOUSE SPEEDS UP TARIFF BILL

Committee Acts on Measure Following Harding's Address

TREATY BEFORE THE SENATE

Colombian Convention Debated in Upper Branch

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press) — Continued debate on the Colombian treaty promised to occupy practically the entire time of the senate today while the house was in session only a few minutes. The calendar Wednesday in the house found that body without the usual routine of private bills because many members had taken advantage of an early adjournment to witness the opening game of the major league baseball season here

Before adjournment was taken, however, the house ways and means committee reported out the emergency tariff bill by agreement reached yesterday shortly after President Harding had urged the necesisty for an emergency measure in his message to congress. The bill is a duplicate of that vetoed at the last session by President Wilson except that its application is reduced from ten to six months

COLOMBIAN TREATY

Senator Kellogg, Republican, Minnesota, leading the opposition in the fight over ratification of the Colombian treaty, opened the senate debate in replying to the address yesterday by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts in which the Republican leader urged early ratification not only on the ground that it would improve this country's relations with Latin America but because of economic considerations as well.

Senator Lodge pointed to the oil stores of Colombia as demanding a policy of favorable action on the treaty by the United States. Senator Pomerene, Democrat, Ohio was scheduled to follow Senator Kellogg in the treaty debate today and Senator Knox, Republican, Pennsylvania, also was prepared prepared to speak. Both favor immediate ratification.

COMMITTEE FIGHT

Prospects of a fight over the plan of Republican senators, approved in conference yesterday, to increase their membership on the ten major committees from 15 to 16 also loomed in the senate today.

Republican senate leaders continued their general expressions of approval today of President Harding's unequivocal declaration in his message to congress that the United States could have no part in the Versailles league of nations and also his declaration favoring termination of the state of war by congressional resolution. In a formal statement after the reading of the message Senator Lodge said he was "extremely pleased" by it, while Senators Johnson of California and Borah of Idaho, leaders of the "irreconcilables" also expressed gratification at its definite rejection of the league, altho stating they were doubtful that the Versailles treaty could be put into any shape acceptable for ratification, a possibility suggested by the president.

PROMINENT THEATRICAL MAN TAKEN BY DEATH

CINCINNATI—T E. Aylward, manager of the Grand Opera House, of this city, and one of the best known theatrical men west of New York, died today at his home in Fort Thomas, Ky., after an illness of four days Mr Aylward was 59 years old Attending physicians attributed death to an acute attack of Bright's disease

JOBLESS, PAIR GIVES AWAY ONLY CHILD

CLEVELAND —(By United Press) —Three months' old Doris Lembach had a new mother and daddy, as well as a brand new name today.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lembach appeared before Judge Hadden in probate court and told him they wished to give their baby away. Mr. and Mrs. John Meredith, the baby's new parents, accompanied the Lembachs to court.

Lembach told the judge he was out of work when the baby was born and so far has been unable to obtain employment. Since he and his wife were no longer able to properly care for little Doris, they did not believe it was fair to the child to keep it and they wished to turn it over legally to the Mereditns.

Judge Hadden entered a ruling, making legal the change in ownership. The Mereditns paid $3 50 court costs and Doris Lembach became Clara Meredith.

Mrs. Lembach cried as she turned her baby over to Mrs Meredith and sobbed, "It isn't easy, but it had to to be done."

Mrs. Lembach leaves for her home in South Carolina today while her husband will continue his search for work.

"We've been wanting a baby ever since we were married a year ago," Mrs. Meredith said. "We met Mrs. Lembach and fell in love with her child. When she decided it was necessary to give her away, we were glad to get her."

BRITAIN'S UNIONS CALL WALKOUT

Peace Negotiations Between Miners and Employers Fail

"ALLIANCE" EDICT FOLLOWS

Rail and Transport Men Join—Means 4,000,000 Idle

LONDON — (By Associated Press) —Great Britains "triple alliance of labor" will call its members from their posts at ten o'clock Friday night, it was announced here this morning at 11 o'clock This decision follows the inability of the National Miners' Federation to reach an agreement with the mine owners and the government for the settlement of the miner's strike, which began April 1

4,000,000 TO BE IDLE

The "triple alliance" is made up of the National Miners' Federation, having a membership of 800,000; the National Union of Railway Men, with 300,000 members, and the National Federation of Transport Workers, which numbers as its members a large number of unions which have a membership of close to 300,000. It has been estimated that if the "alliance" should call a strike there would be nearly 4,000,000 persons idle in England as a result.

OTHERS MAY JOIN

The decision to strike was reached unanimously by the transport workers and railway men, J. H. Thomas general secretary of the railway men's union, said after this morning's meeting.

"The walkout," he declared, "will take place at 10 o'clock Friday night. Many other unions have sent applications to join the strike, and these are being considered"

STATEMENT ISSUED

"In the event of the threatened extension of the stoppage of work, the government wish to make it clear that they will use the fullest powers of the state to protect the workers who remain at work in any services essential to the life of the community.

"In any settlement which may be reached the government will give their support in assuring that the position of such workers shall not be prejudiced as compared with their position before the stoppage"

One of the many uncertainties of the situation is whether the three cornered negotiations to which the owners, the miners and the government have been parties, are really at an end

The postponement of the triple alliance sympathetic strike yesterday created an acute situation within the labor camp It is understood that the miners, with some show of feeling over this seeming indication of weakness, made a preparatory demand upon their partners in the alliance this morning that they "lay their cards on the table" and declare finally whether they intend to strike, and if so, when.

CLUES TO GANG OF THIEVES ARE TRACED

LOUISVILLE Ky — Railroad detectives today are following up what they believe to be an important clue to a gang of freight car thieves, uncovered by the seizure yesterday of two cases of shoes alleged to be part of the loot taken from freight trains in Evansville, Ind., Peoria, Ill., and Ironton, Ohio The shoes, valued at $1,300 were consigned to Louisville auctioneers and commission merchants, at whose store the goods were found

The goods were shipped by a merchandising company of Cleveland Ohio and G F Cook, detective for the New York Central railroad, left Louisville for Cleveland immediately after the investigation here had been completed Mr Cook declared the local dealers have handled on a commission basis $200,000 worth of merchandise for the Cleveland company.

DRUGS, WORTH $250,000, SEIZED BY RAIDERS

NEW YORK — Drugs valued at $250,000, said to have been brought into this country by a band of international drug smugglers, were seized early today in a residence in Brooklyn. A youth who gave the name of Charles Nancin was arrested on a charge of violating the Harrison act.

A member of the police narcotic squad, disguised as an underworld habitue, said he went to the residence last night and negotiated to purchase $50,000 worth of the drugs Requesting samples, he said, he was led thru many hallways, then thru a secret door to the drug cache. He returned later with a raiding party.

THE GOLD GIRL-NEW NEWS NOVEL

By JAMES B. HENDRYX

"THE GOLD GIRL"

"The Gold Girl" which starts in today's issue, is another complete novel by James Hendryx, which is being offered to News readers. This popular novel has for its heroine Patty Sinclair, born and bred in the east, who comes West after her father's death, and there meets adventure, and romance.

There is a sprinkling of the mysterious thruout the novel that is certain to entertain. Don't miss the opening chapter.

PATTY SINCLAIR reined in her horse at the top of a low divide and, gazed helplessly around her. The trail that had grown fainter and fainter with its ascent of the creek bed disappeared entirely at the slope of loose rock and bunch grass that slanted steeply to the divide. In vain she scanned the deeply gored valley that lay before her and the timbered slopes of the mountains for sign of human habitation. Stiffly the girl dismounted. She had been in the saddle since early noon with only two short intervals of rest.

"I'm lost," she murmured. "Just plain lost. Surely, I must have come fifty miles, and I followed their directions exactly, and now I' tired, and stiff, and sore, and hungry, and lost" A grim little smile tightened the corners of her mouth But I m glad I came. If Aunt Rebecca would see me now' Wouldn't she just gloat? 'I told you so, my dear, just as I often told your poor father, to have nothing to do with that horrible country of wild Indians, and ferocious beasts, and desperate characters,' " Hot tears blurred her eyes at the thought of her father. "This is the country he loved, with its mountains and its woods and its deep mysterious valleys—and I want to love it, too And I will love it! I'll find his mine if it takes me all the rest of my life And I'll show the people back home that he was right, that he did know that the gold was here, and that he wasn't just a visionary and a no'er-do-well!"

A rattle of loose stones set her heart thumping wildly and caused her to peer down the back trail where a horseman was slowly ascending the slope.

Summoning her haughtiest, coldest look, she met the glance of the man who drew rein beside her

"Good evenin', miss," he greeted, pleasantly "Lost?"

"No," she lied brazenly, "I came here on purpose—I—like it here" She felt the lameness of the lie and her cheeeks flushed

"It's a right nice place," he agreed. To her surprise the girl could find no hint of sarcasm in the words, nor was there anything to indicate the "desperate character" in the way he leaned forward to stroke his horse's mane, and removed a wisp of hair from beneath the headstall.

The man shifted himself in the saddle. "Well, I must be goin'," he said. "Good evening'."

As the horse started down the steep descent on the other side of the divide a feeling of loneliness that was very akin to terror gripped the girl.

"Oh! Please—"

The buckskin turned in his tracks, and once more the man was beside her upon the ridge

"I am lost," she faltered. "Only I hated to admit it"

"Folks always do I've been lost a hundred times, an' never would admit it"

"I started for the Watts' ranch. Do you know where it is?"

"Yes, it's over on Monte's creek."

She headed her horse down the back trail and rode into the deepening shadows

It was with a decided feeling of depression that Patty Sinclair approached the Watts ranch. Long before she had reached the buildings an air of shiftless delapidation was manifest in the ill-lined barbed wire fences whose rotting posts sagged drunkenly upon the loosely strung wire.

A rabble of nondescript curs came snapping and yapping about her horse's legs until dispersed by a harsh command from the dark interior of the cabin A tousled head was thrust from the doorway, and after a moment of inspection a man stepped out upon the hard-trodden earth of the dooryard

"Howdy," he greeted, in a not unkindly tone

"Is—is this the Watts ranch?" the girl suppressed a wild desire to burst into tears.

"Yes, mom, this it hit—what they is of hit." His fingers picked vaguely at his scraggly beard. An idea seemed suddenly to strike him, and turning, he thrust his head in at the door. "Ma!" he called loudly, and again "Ma! Ma!"

A tall woman with a broad, kind-

ANSWER TO DELEGATION

General Amnesty of Espionage Violators is Asked

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press) — President Harding told a delegation which called on him today to urge the release of Eugene V. Debs and all other prisoners convicted under the war-time espionage act, that he contemplated no action looking to general amnesty for such prisoners until a state of peace had been declared.

The delegation issued a formal statement after leaving the white House in which it said the president had received it "most courteously, asking questions to bring out certain points."

RECEIVING ATTENTION

"He spoke of his entire sympathy with the desire of the committee to see an era of frnak discussion in an atmosphere of good will established in America," the statement added, "and intimated that the cases of these prisoners for whom the committee spoke had already begun to receive attention from the department of justice."

In presenting their arguments the committee cited various court decisions which they said, established that the prisoners referred to were not guilty of overt acts, but merely of holding opinions which were construed as harmful.

GENERAL PROGRAM

The visit of the delegation to the White House was a part of a general amnesty program carried out today by delegates representing labor, political and civic organizations in the leading industrial centers as far west, as St Louis

Similar pleas to that presented to the president were made to Vice President Coolidge, Speaker Gillett, of the house of representatives and Attorney General Daugherty, while petitions bearing thousands of signatures were presented to individual members of congress.

The delegates, numbering about 200, marched to the capitol behind a motor truck bearing a monster petition to congress singed by citizens of 41 states.

MAYOR TESTIFIES IN GORDON CASE

North-st Woman Charged With Keeping House of Ill Fame

Criminal court room was crowded all day Wednesday, with persons interested in the trial of Lillian Gordon, 38, charging with keeping a house of ill fame at 235 E. North-st.

More than a dozen witnesses testified up until 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon; those for the City of Lima attempting to show that the house was used for immoral purposes, and those for the defense that it was not.

A jury hearing the trial is composed of Charles Hiatt, Jacob Piper, A. Lowenstein, W. A. Campbell, W. R. Daniels, A. J. Barr, Paul Crawford R. R. Shank, Harry Botkins, Herbert Baxter and John Boocose.

Mayor F. A. Burkhardt, subpoenaed by the defense, took the stand at 2 p. m. He denied making any investigation, outside of driving past the house twice on Saturday night, April 2, and then asking police to investigate and act accordingly.

"I am very well pleased with the results," the Mayor said. "Numerous complaints about the house have been made at my office. I do not know Lillian Gordon, other than that her name is branded as a police character."

Declares He Is Highly Pleased With New Remedy

Well known Lima citizen, suffered from sluggish liver, weak kidneys, nervousness, loss of appetite and constipation. Dreco now sells at the old price.

"I have frequently gone without a meal to avoid the distress which usually followed eating. I have been troubled with indigestion, constipation, gas in my stomach, but it's all different now," says Mr. C. F. Protsman of 327 South Nye Street, Lima, Ohio.

"My liver was sluggish and I often had dizzy spells; spots floated before my eyes, my tongue was coated and I had a foul taste in my mouth. My kidneys were weak and I often had dull, aching pains in my back. After each meal I'd feel very uncomfortable caused by gastritis, which gave my stomach a full, bloated feeling, often with a burning sensation.

"I dreaded for night to come because I was so nervous I could not sleep, but would roll and toss from one side of the bed to the other and when morning came would be more worn out and nervous than when I retired the night before.

"Since taking Dreco all these ailments have disappeared. My bowels act regularly; no more dizzy spells attack me; the bad taste and foul breath are gone. I stoop and bend over without a pain in my limbs, and all the aches in my back, in the region of my kidneys are gone. I sleep sound all night long, and have to be roused every morning. I can't say enough in praise of the great remedy Dreco."

All good druggists now sell Dreco and it is highly recommended in Lima by Baldwin's Central Drug Store, Cor. Main and High-sts.—Adv.

EFFORT BY MRS. SUTTON TO INTERCEPT DIVORCE DECREE CAME TOO LATE

Mrs. Elizabeth Sutton, Dayton, endeavored to intercept the divorce decree granted to her husband, Attorney William W. Sutton, by Judge D. M. Bailey, in common pleas court. But it's too late.

Legal counsel for Mrs. Sutton telephoned County Clerk of Courts Ira F. Clem Wednesday he did not want Sutton decreed a divorce.

Mrs. Sutton's counsel stated in a letter received by Clem Thursday to hold up the decree; that Mrs. Sutton and her attorney would come to Lima to contest the action.

Clem turned the letter over to Judge Bailey.

The court granted Sutton a divorce on his cross petition on grounds of cruelty and neglect, ignoring the letter.

Mrs. Sutton filed the divorce action more than two years ago. All Clem could do was to inform her counsel Mrs. Sutton was a free woman and refer him further to Judge Bailey.

FOUR INDICTMENTS BY VAN WERT GRAND JURY

VAN WERT — Four indictments, one secret, were returned by the April session of the grand jury Tuesday night. Profiting by the experience of the January term when a special session had to be called because of an error in returning the indictments, the April session was not excused.

Of the indictments, two are against William Robinson, charged with larceny and burglary in connection with the robbery of the Murphy second hand store. Carl Yoh is charged with theft of an automobile.

DESERTED BY HUSBAND WHEN BABY CAME, WIFE SAYS IN DIVORCE ACTION

That he did not wish a child which was to be born to them was the allegation made by Flora McClish in a suit for divorce from David McClish filed Wednesday afternoon. The couple were married in Lima April 4, 1911. They have one child, Evelyn, 6.

Mrs. McClish charges the child her husband did not want, lived but a few weeks. She says she has not heard from her husband in three years.

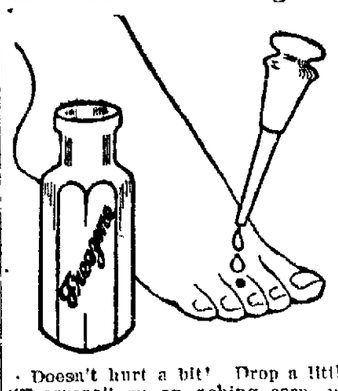

Her husband told her, she related, that if the babe was born, he would leave. He never saw the little one, she says. Her petition states she has been forced to provide a home and care for the young daughter, whose custody she asks.

COMMUNITY CHEST FUND SOLICITORS "CARRY ON" WORKING AS FREE LANCES

Altho no report of the progress being made in the Community Chest fund drive was made Wednesday, it is understood that the workers, who are still "carrying on," have added several more hundred dollars to the fund. All of the 200 workers are "free lancing" this week.

The business department of the senior class at Central high school is assisting in the tabulation of amounts donated to the fund. Approximately 3,000 have contributed.

The reorganization of the drive machinery will be perfected at a meeting of workers Saturday afternoon, when, assisted by the report of a survey now being made, the workers will set out on the final drive to fill the chest.

Two thirds of the $30,000 quota has been subscribed.

B. & O. OFFICIALS TO SPEAK HERE

Address Meeting of Veterans' Body, Saturday

A mass meeting under the direction of the B. & O. Veterans' Association will be held Saturday evening, April 16, at Memorial Hall. Not only will all Lima employees and their families be invited, but it is expected that many from that part of the lines between Dayton and Deshler will also be present. A program has been prepared with H. O. Hartzell, manager of the commercial development department; W. W. Wood, chief of the welfare bureau, and G. W. Sturmer, grand president of the Veterans' association, as principal speakers. There will also be numbers by local B. & O. talent.

Advancement of the welfare of the employes and plans whereby traffic on the road may be increased will be discussed. Methods will be presented by which much of the traffic diverted to other lines during the war period will be returned to the B. & O. This diversion of traffic is expected to materially aid the road and in turn will hasten the reopening of the shops here on a full time basis. The B. & O. is the largest employer of railroad labor in Lima.

Meetings similar to this one are being held at all important points along the entire system. The meetings began April 11 and will continue till April 29.

BODY OF VAN WERT-CO SOLDIER FROM OVERSEA

VAN WERT—Body of Harvey Lewis, killed in action overseas, arrived at his old home in Ohio City Wednesday from where it will be brought to his former home in this city. Services Thursday will be in charge of the Harvey Lewis Post of the American Legion of Ohio City. Burial will be made at Middle Point, where his parents now reside. Lewis was a member of Company C, 364th Regiment, Ninety-first division.

RAIL WORKERS MEET TO ACT ON WAGE CUT

TOLEDO — A mass meeting to be participated in by fifteen crafts of railroad workers called for the purpose of discussing the proposed wage cuts, went into session here this morning.

R. S. Galloway, an officer of the national organization, is one of the speakers. Engineers, firemen, brakemen, switchmen and shop employes are included in the gathering.

The call for the meeting was issued by A. J. Barnes, secretary-treasurer of the United Association of Railroad Employes. It is expected to continue all day.

MAN INJURED IN FALL AT LOCOMOTIVE WORKS

T. R. Hesson, 764 W. High-st, employe of the Lima Locomotive Works, suffered painful injuries in a fall while at his work Tuesday afternoon. Unless infection should set in, it is announced recovery is expected.

Hesson was removed from the Locomotive Works to St. Rita's hospital, where his condition is improved, according to word from the hospital Wednesday.

JURY HOLDS AS VALID A NOTE OF LONG STANDING

The jury which on Tuesday heard the trial of W. L. Evans, Gomer groceryman, against Edna, B. F. and D. T. Pugh, returned a verdict in favor of Evans, after deliberation of two hours, Tuesday afternoon.

Evans sought to collect money on a note given to take care of an outstanding grocery bill and for money loaned the Pugh family, a total of more than $150, with interest.

"TEETH" FOR BLUE SKY LAW RECOMMENDED

COLUMBUS—The senate committee on banking today recommended for passage the Chatfield bill to put "teeth" in the state blue sky law. One amendment in the bill makes it a penitentiary offense to advertise securities for sale in Ohio which have not been authorized by the state securities department. Newspapers and publications using such advertisements would not be liable to prosecution but those who offered the advertisements would be.

Senator Chatfield, author of the bill, said millions of dollars were being collected in Ohio each year on bogus stocks and it is the purpose of his bill to check this practice. The bill provides for the appointment of an investigator to secure prosecutions of all fake stocks and bonds advertised for sale in Ohio.

COMMERCIALIZED MINISTRY DEPLORED BY BISHOP

BOSTON, Mass.—Bishop William Lawrence in his annual address to the Massachusetts diocesan convention of the Episcopal church today, deplored the number of clergymen who were mixing business with holy orders to eke out a living. Their number was startling, he said, and the condition was one which he regarded as symptomatic of a let down in standards of a high devotion, industry, self-sacrifice and efficiency.

The danger of a commercialized ministry, the bishop said, was due in part to small salaries.

"I believe," he declared, "that unless there is a bracing up of public sentiment, respect for holy orders will decline both in the church and in the business world."

HEALTH A WOMAN'S GREATEST ASSET

Contrast the cheerful happy woman with head erect, the glow of health on her cheeks, the elastic step and bubbling enthusiasm as she goes about her daily tasks, with the woman who suffers from backache, headaches, dragging-down pains, nervousness and despondency. Such conditions are undoubtedly caused by woman's ailments, which will yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for many, many years has been restoring weak, ailing women to health and strength. Every woman who suffers in this way owes it to herself to at least give it a trial.

CARDINAL DAUGHERTY RETURNS FROM ROME

NEW YORK — The steamship Olympic arrived in New York harbor this morning, bearing Cardinal Dennis J. Dougherty of Philadelphia back from Rome where he received the red hat and all the honors due a prince of the church.

When the Olympic was reported at Quarantine, two police boats carrying six monsignori from Philadelphia, representatives of Archbishop Hays of New York and a reception committee of 200 Philadelphians put out to meet her.

PROTEST IS SENT FROM LIMA

Order for Deportation of O'Callaghan Resented

Protest against the Federal state and labor departments in ordering the deportation of Donal O'Callaghan, Lord Mayor of Cork, Ireland, has been sent to President Harding and the senators and congressmen by the local organization of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic. The protest was sent by telegram, following action of the association, according to Vice President John Kevills.

O'Callaghan's presence in the United States and his tour of the country making addresses favoring this country's recognization of the Irish republic has caused a furor at Washington. O'Callaghan came to America as a stowaway and was to remain only until he had secured passage as a seaman.

First steps toward the formation of a local organization of the American Association for the Recognization of the Irish Republic were taken following O'Callaghan's address here six weeks ago. The society now has more than 300 members.

HEART ATTACK BRINGS DEATH OF MRS. RUMSEY

Mrs. Lucy Rumsey, 61, died at the home of her son, Floyd F. Rumsey, 630 S. Scott-st, Tuesday. She was stricken with heart trouble Monday night and died after an illness of only a few hours. Floyd Rumsey is her only child.

Prayer service will be held Thursday at 2 o'clock at the son's residence. The body will be taken to Stryker, Ohio, for funeral services at 1:30 o'clock Friday. Interment will be in Stryker cemetery.

DEISEL-WEMMER EMPLOYES COMPANY GUESTS AT PLAY

Employes of the north side factory of the Deisel-Wemmer company enjoyed a theater party at the Orpheum, Tuesday evening, as guests of heads of the company.

More than 300 of the employes attended, special seats having been reserved for them. The object was to provide enjoyment after working hours with just a little social courtesy.

The production was "The Brat", a comedy put on by the North Stock company, which has supplanted vaudeville at the Orpheum.

LEGION TO GIVE BENEFIT.

The local post of the American Legion will give a dance at the Knights of Columbus hall next Monday night for the benefit of ex-service men who were wounded or diseased. All proceeds of the dance except those to defray the expenses will go to this cause. The Ragpickers' orchestra will furnish the music. The public is invited.

THE GOLD GIRL

By JAMES B. HENDRYX

"Sakes alive, if hit hain't a lady! Hain't yo' done tol' her to git off an' come in? Jest yo' climb right down offen thet cayuse, dearie, an' come on in the house. John, yo' concinch that saddle, an' then, Horatius Ezek'l, yo' an' David Golieth, taken the hoss to the barn an' see't he's hayed an' watered 'fore yo' come back. Microby Dandeline, yo' git a pot o' tea abilin' an' fry up a bate o' bacon, an' cut some bread, an' warm up the rest o' thet pone, an' you', Lillian Russell, yo' finish dryin' them dishes an' set 'em back on the table. An' Abraham Lincoln Wirt, yo' fetch a pail o' water, an' wrinch out the worsh dish, an' a piece o' soap by, an' a clean towel, an' light up the lamp."

"My name is Sinclair. Patty Sinclair, of Middleton, Connecticut. My father—"

"Land o' love! So you're Mr. Sinclair's darter! How's yer pa, an' where's he at?"

"My father died last month," answered the girl without raising her eyes from the plate of food Microby Dandeline had placed before her.

"For the land sakes, child! I want to know."

"Watts! Watts!" The lank form appeared in the doorway. "This here's Mr. Sinclair's darter, an' he's up and died. Yer pa wuz a nice man, an' well thought of. We-all know'd him well. It was goin' on three years he prospected 'round here in the hills, an' many a time he's set right where yo're settin' now, an' et his meal o' vittles. Some said las' full 'fore he went back east how he'd made his strike, an' hit was quartz gold, an' how he'd gone back to git money to work hit. Mr. Bethune thought so, an' Lord Clendenning. They must of be'n thicker'n thieves with yer pa, 'cordin' to their tell." The woman paused and eyed the girl inquisitively. "Did he make his strike, an' did he record hit?"

"I don't know," answered the girl wearily.

Several hens pecked assiduously at some crumbs, and Patty realized that it was the sound of their bills upon the wooden floor that had awakened her.

Early next morning the sound of voices reached her ears. Ma Watts hurried to the window.

"Well, if it ain't Mr. Bethune an' Lord Clendenning! Ef you see one you know the other ain't fer off."

Patty could distinctly see the riders as they lounged in their saddles. The larger, whose bulging blue eyes and drooping blond mustache gave him a peculiar walrus-like expression, she swept at a glance. The other was talking to Watts and the girl noted the slender figure with its almost feminine delicacy of mold, and the finely chiseled features, dominated by eyes black as jet—eyes that glowed with a velvety softness as he spoke.

"We have been looking over your upper pasture," he said. "A fellow named Schmidt over in the Blackfoot country will be delivering some horses across the line this summer and he wants to rent some pastures at different points along the trail. How about it?"

Watts rubbed his beard uncertainly.

Reaching into his pocket, Bethune withdrew a gold piece which he tossed to Watts. "Maybe this will change your luck," he smiled. "The fact is I want that pasture—or, rather, Schultz does."

"Thought yo' said Schmidt."

"Did I? Those kraut names all sound alike to me. But his name is Schultz. The point is, he'll pay you $5 a month to hold the pasture, and $5 for every day or night he uses it. That ten spot pays for the first two months. Better buy a new ax and spade and some supplies and get to work."

"Well, I reckon I kin. Hit's powerful hot fer to work much, but that's a sight o' money. As I wuz sayin' to Mrs. Sinclair's darter—"

"Sinclair's daughter! What do you mean? Is Sinclair back?"

Patty noted the sudden flash of the jet black eyes at the mention of her father's name. It was as tho a point of polished steel had split their velvet softness. The girl's interest in the quarter-breed had been casual at most, hardly more than that accorded by a passing glance until she had chanced to hear him refer to the man in the Blackfoot country in one breath as Schmidt, and in the next as Schultz. She wondered at that and so had remained standing beside Mrs. Watts, screened from the outside by the morning glory vines that served as a curtain for the window. So intent had she become that she hardly noticed the cruel bluntness of Watt's reply.

"He's dead."

"Yas, he died back east an' his darter's come."

"Does she know he made a strike?" Patty noted the look of eagerness that accompanied the words.

"I do' no." Watts wagged his head slowly. "Mebbe so; mebbe not."

"Because, if she doesn't," Bethune hastened to add, "she should be told. Rod Sinclair was one of the best friends I had, and if he has gone I'm right here to see that his daughter gets a square deal. Of course if she has the location, she's all right." Patty wondered whether the man had purposely raised his voice, or was it her imagination?

Ma Watts had started for the door. "Come on out, honey, an' I'll make yo' acquanted with Mr. Bethune. He wus a frienn of you' pa, an' Lord too." As she followed the woman to the door, the girl was conscious of an indefinable feeling of distrust for the man.

Somewhere, his words had not rung true.

As the two women stepped from the house the horsemen swung from their saddles and stood with uncovered heads.

"This yere's Mr. Sinclair's darter, Mr. Bethune," beamed Ma Watts. "An' I'd take hit proud ef yo'd all stay to dinner."

"Ah, Miss Sinclair, I am most happy to know you. Permit me to present my friend Lord Clendenning. I only just learned of your father's untimely death. Permit me express my sincerest sympathy, and to assure you that if I can be of service to you in any way I am yours to command."

"Thank you, answered Patty, flushing slightly under the scrutiny of the black eyes. "I am here to locate my father's claim. I want to do it alone, but if I can' I shall certainly ask assistance of his friends."

"Exactly. But, my dear Miss Sinclair, let me warn you. There are men in these hills who suspected that your father made a strike, which would stop at nothing to wrest your secret from you." The girl nodded. "I suppose so. But forewarned is forarmed, isn't it? I thank you?"

"Thet Vil Holland wuz by yeste'day," said Watts.

Bethune frowned. "I should think you'd had enough of him after the way he ran your sheep man off."

Watts rubbed his beard. "Well, I dun'no. The cattlemen pays me same as that sheep done. Vil Holland tended to that."

"That isn't the point. What right has Vil Holland and others of his like to tell you, or me, or anybody else who we shall, or shall not rent to? It is the principle of the thing. The running off of those sheep was a lawless act, and the sooner lawlessness, as exemplified by Vil Holland, is stamped out of these hills, the better it will be for the community. He better not try to bulldoze me." Bethune turned to Patty. "That Vil Holland is the man I had in mind, Miss Sinclair, when I warned you to choose your friends wisely. He would stop at nothing to gain an end, even to posing as a friend of your father. In all probability he will offer to assist you, but if you have any map or description of your father's location do not under any circumstances show it to him."

Patty smiled. "If any such paper exists I shall keep it to myself."

Parties Who Damage Light Standards Better Pay Up

Drastic action against autoists who damaged boulevard light standards by colliding with them with their machines will be asked of the Safety department by Service Director Elmer McClain.

"Since the lights have been installed at least a dozen standards have been wrecked," McClain said Wednesday, "and a half dozen of the responsible parties came to us and offered to pay for the damage done, but the others have done nothing. We know them and unless they take steps to repair the damage, I will have to ask that they be arrested."

The system has not been accepted from the contractor and the loss occasioned from autos is at the expense of the contractor.

McClain says that the light standards cannot be expected to withstand the impact of a heavy motor car. In a letter to property owners along the streets where the lights have been installed, he asks them to exercise more care in parking their cars.

PENNA. RAILROAD 75TH ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED

Wednesday was the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Pennsylvania roalroad. The charter was granted in 1846 by the legislature of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

At many places along the line the event was being celebrated by the decoration of the stations and the trains and in some of the centers of population whistles were sounded for five minutes at noon.

There was no local celebration of the "birthday," presumably because word was not received until Wednesday morning and there was not sufficient time to prepare for one.

SCHOOL BOARD ORDERS PAYMENT FOR PAVING

Board of education authorized the payment of $5,500 for the paving of city streets in front of schools at the regular meeting of the board Wednesday night.

Council had been after the board to pay for the streets for some months and had ruled that no more streets would be paved in front of school buildings until the old account was squared.

Guy Butler, member of the board, said that council should have come half way in the matter and had not been fair to the school board, but that owing to a gentlemen's agreement, the board would foot the entire bill.

GAME WARDENS SPEAK AT DINNER HELD AT OTTAWA

Charles E. Hances, deputy fish and game warden, Shawnee-tp, was one of the speakers at the dinner given by the Putnam-co Fish and Game Protective association at Ottawa Tuesday night.

Hances was accompanied to that city by Assistant Superintendent Stuber, Columbus, who came to Putnam-co expressly for the meeting. Stuber was also one of the speakers. They returned to Lima Wednesday morning.

STORK BRINGS A BOY

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Fivehouse, 1014 Bellefontaine-ave are the parents of a nine and a half pound son.

Mrs. Robert O. Reynolds

"I have actually gained twenty-five pounds and I just think Tanlac is the grandest medicine in the world," said Mrs. Robert O. Reynolds, 127 North Denver St., Kansas City, Mo.

"For ten long years I suffered from a very bad form of rheumatism, stomach and nervous troubles. My appetite was very poor. What little I did eat soured on my stomach and I suffered the most severe pains in my back, hips and shoulders. My rheumatism was so bad that I could not raise my hands to comb my hair and my arms hurt me to my finger tips. I became so weak and run down that I lost all my energy and life had become almost a burden. I tried many things but nothing helped me.

"I had only taken my first bottle of Tanlac when I noticed my appetite was improving and I could sleep better at night. I have taken three bottles and the way it has helped me and built me up is really astonishing. I can eat anything and everything without the slightest disagreeable after-effects. I sleep just fine at night and am in better health than I have been for years. I am glad to give this statement, hoping that any who are suffering as I did may experience the same wonderful results, which I believe they will if they give Tanlac a fair trial."

Tanlac is sold in Lima at Hunter's Drug Stores and the leading druggists in every town.—Adv.

C. C. EXECUTIVE TELLS PAINTERS HOW HE ONCE ESSAYED THAT VOCATION

J. Kennard Johnson, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke at a banquet of employees of the Ottawa Paint Co. and local painters at the Norval Hotel Tuesday night and "brought down the roof" with his account of his first attempt at painting.

"I was three years old," said Johnson, "when it happened that some painters were working at our home. They were very liberal and left an extra can of "green trim" in the house. The stillness, so dreaded by most mothers, came over the house and upon investigating she found that I had put an artistic green border on the piano. Events that follower kept me from developing into a real painter."

The Lima club has arranged for another dance, to be held Saturday evening from 9 to 12 o'clock. Reservations may be made not later than Friday noon. Light refreshments will be served. George T. Glover is chairman of the entertainment committee.

FEATURES OF Y. W. "HEALTH WEEK"

Models Demonstrate Correct Dress—Program Outline

Correct dress, demonstrated by living models, was the subject of the Wednesday afternoon meeting at the Y. W. C. A. This is the third day of the "Health Week" being put on by the Y. W. C. A. and the discussions are meeting with a great amount of interest. A number of very interesting and practical dresses were shown and Miss Garford spoke on "Dressing for Health."

At 5:30 Wednesday evening the industrial girls are to participate in a big hay ride. More than a hundred are expected to be in on the good time indulged in. Miss Garmett Curtin farm, where a troop of Boy Scouts will have everything ready for the feed.

Thursday will be Girl Reserves Day. At 4 p. m. they will have a special open meeting and initiation. There will also be two feature numbers on the program, a "wand drill" and a "country dance."

In the evening at 7 the gymnasium will be turned over to the girls employed as cigar makers and a general good time indulged in. Miss Garford will also give a demonstration of exercises. All girls so employed are earnestly invited to attend.

Rupture Kills 7,000 Annually

Seven thousand persons each year are laid away—the burial certificate being marked "Rupture." Why? Because the unfortunate ones had neglected themselves or had been merely taking care of the sign (swelling) of the affliction and paying no attention to the cause. What are you doing? Are you neglecting yourself by wearing a truss, appliance, or whatever name you choose to call it? At best, the truss is only a makeshift—a false prop against a collapsing wall—and cannot be expected to act as more than a mere mechanical support. The binding pressure retards blood circulation, thus robbing the weakened muscles of that which they need most—nourishment.

But science has found a way, and every truss sufferer in the land is invited to make a FREE test right in the privacy of their own home. The PLAPAO method is unquestionably the most scientific, logical and successful self-treatment for rupture the world has ever known.

The PLAPAO-PAD when adhering closely to the body cannot possibly slip or shift out of place, therefore, cannot chafe or pinch. Soft as velvet—easy to apply—inexpensive. To be used whilst you work and whilst you sleep. No straps, buckles or springs attached.

Learn how to close the hernial opening as nature intended so the rupture CAN'T come down. Send your name today to PLAPAO CO., Block, 227 St. Louis, Mo., for FREE trial Plapao and the information necessary.—Adv.

No Corns Today

unless folks let them stay

Millions of people nowadays keep completely free from corns.

At the first sign of a corn they use Blue-jay—the liquid or the plaster. The pain then stops. In a little while the whole corn loosens and comes out.

People who pare corns keep them. People who use old treatments—harsh, unscientific—do themselves injustice.

There is now a scientific corn ender. A famous chemist perfected it. This world-famed laboratory supplies it through druggists everywhere.

It is at your call. A touch will apply it. Its use seals the fate of a corn.

At least 20 million corns yearly are now ended in this easy, gentle way. Apply it to one corn tonight. Watch what it does.

NEW SAFER AFTER WAPAK POLICE

Resignation Forced—Seeks Chief's Scalp

YOUTH HELD FOR FORGERY

First Mushrooms—Alleged Hold-ups' Bonds Reduced

WAPAKONETA — (Special) — First official act of Safety Director Adrian Seitz, appointed Monday to succeed Francis Heinisch, resigned, was to force resignation of William Wehrle, merchants' night policeman. Wehrle turned in his badge to Mayor Newcomer. It is rumored Seitz may also ask Chief of Police Ague and Patrolman Fred Houtz to resign, thus changing the entire force. Seitz claims to have charges sufficient to oust them.

Suspected of at least four forgeries Arthur Opperman 20, New Knoxville, is in the county jail here. He is specifically charged with passing a bad check for $160 on Earl Woodell, Botkins stock buyer, at the Shelby-co bank in Botkins, Friday.

Eugene Koontz, Lima industrial league catcher, has been signed by Manager Eichler of the Wapakoneta Reds for this season. Joe Morris, New Hampshire, will play the outfield. Eichler is now dickering for pitcher Ewing Mahan, nephew of Sheriff Bob Ewing, of New Hampshire.

St Mark's Lutheran church is scene of Auglaize-co conference of Lutheran joint synod of Ohio. Twelve ministers are here. Services are held morning, afternoon and evening

First mushrooms of season are on display here. Fungi, size of marbles, were picked up by Aldo Walter on his farm.

Council Tuesday night accepted report of commission of three men appointed to re-appraise Benton and Bellefontaine-sts aftes Council and property owners could not come to an agreement on assessments for improvements. Commission reduced them in total amount of $3,515.

On application by their attorneys, bonds for David Whitfield, Guy Tennant and Al Karch, held for holdup of Weber gambling house on March were reduced from $10,000 to $7,000 for each. Tennent and Karch are expected to obtain bond

HUMERICKHOUSE IS HELD TO JURY

Sweetheart of Tresa Petro Indicted at Celina

CELINA—(Special)—Floyd Humrickhouse, sweetheart of Theresa Petro, was indicated by the grand jury here Tuesday for rape with consent. The Petro girl was believed to have been in a delicate condition and at the autopsy held Saturday the fact was established. This puts at rest the theory that she might have died as the result of a criminal operation. The girl's body was found last week in the St. Marys river near Rockford. She was missing since January.

Other indictments were James Swarthwood for rape with consent The girl in this case is 13 year old Flossie Smelser, of Celina, now in the Girls' Reformatory, and Alex Norris for burglary.

The grand jury was in session seven days and examined 117 witnesses, covering 17 cases. Five of the bills returned are secret and nine cases were ignored. This is the longest session and the largest number of witnesses examined in the history of Mercer-co.

RETAIL CLERKS ARE TO BE BENEFITED

Mrs. Elsie Herold

Out-of-town life is conceded by all authorities to be the most healthful. And so the retail clerks, the boys and girls who stand behind the sales counters are compelled to pay the penalty of an all-day grind in air that is often laden with impurities.

As a consequence they tire easily and are more subject to sickness than their more fortunate sisters and brothers who work in the open.

Pepgen has been a great benefit to thousands of clerks.

Pepgen is composed of different kinds of roots and barks which are well-known for their tonic properties. Sick headaches, dizzy spells, sleeplessness, nervousness, sallow complexion, tired feeling, under weight and other sumptoms are frequently caused by feeble or slow digestion or by habitual constipation. When such is the case Pepgen seldom fails to relieve.

Right here in Lima scores of clerks have recommended Pepgen. Many statements to this effect have been published in the local news-Ohio.—Adv.

Not only in this city but elsewhere thruout the country clerks are paising Pepgen. Inasmuch as so many local indorsements have been published it will no doubt be interesting to note what people are saying in other cities.

Mrs. Elsie Herold, clerk who resides at 22 Mumma Avenue, Dayton, furnishes a good example of what people in that city are saying. Mrs. Herold says:

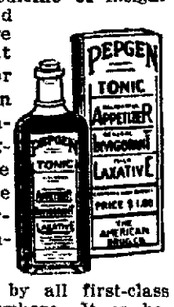

"I found Pepgen to be a splendid medicine for the blood and nerves.

"For many months there was not a day that I felt exactly right. I was always tired, no matter whether I worked or not. I scarcely ate enough to keep a bird alive.

"I dreaded to see night come because it meant long hours of rolling and tossing in bed without sleep. When I got up in the morning I felt more fatigued, if such a thing is possible, than when I went to bed. Pepgen did a wonderful lot of good for me and now I feel like a different woman."

Homer A. Ireland is vice president of Miami Valley Drug Co., which is one of the largest wholesale firms in the State of Ohio. They sell hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of medicines every year. In view of Mr. Ireland's wide experience, special significance attaches to what he has to say about Pepgen. His statement follows:

"The enormous popularity of Pepgen seems to be due to its good effects in stomach, liver and bowel troubles. No medicine of insignificant merit could pile up the huge sales record that has Pepgen, nor gain as has Pepgen the unqualified indorsement of druggists by the score who stand for the best of the irrespective communities."

Pepgen is sold by all first-class drug stores everywhere. It is being specially introduced at Charles M. Hunter's Drug Stores in Lima, Ohio.

Where Oil Springs to Serve Man

JUST as the great Mississippi can be traced to a small stream in Northern Minnesota, so can the huge machinery of the oil industry and the wide service it renders mankind be traced back to a hole in the ground and a derrick.

The modern oil well is a monument to American initiative. Where the pioneers trusted to "fool's luck" in striking oil, the geologist of today knows that Nature affords certain clues to her stores of petroleum and so brings order and efficiency to his searches.

For every gallon of gasoline consumed by man another gallon must be found and the known oil resources of the world, although bountiful, are far from boundless. So science, conscious of the imperative need of supplying the tremendous demand for oil on land and sea and in the air, has become interested in the work. Location, discovery and production now proceed in a systematic way with no loss of the romance of "bringing in" a well —and with greater benefit to all.

From 1870 this company has been a factor in the evolution of the oil industry. The knowledge and facilities acquired during this period are centered in two model Ohio refineries at which we manufacture Red Crown—a clean uniform gasoline, with the complete chain of boiling points which gives full power and long mileage.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

IN his first message to the new congress of the United States, submitted by President Harding Tuesday, following the Wilson style of appearing in person before that body and reading his message, the chief executive employs positive language in a few things.

As a whole, the message is accepted by all classes of people of America as a workable pronouncement, having much of merit in it and outlining a program along which the administration will move in working out big problems confronting the nation and the world.

Rejection of the League of Nations is sufficiently pronounced to hearten the irreconcilables of all parties, while Harding's expression concerning peace with the Central Powers leaves much to be inferred, or rather to be worked out later. He asks for a declaration of peace by congress, but "no separate peace on the assumption alone that these would be adequate."

Rather he urges that "the wiser course would seem to be" to engage under the existing treaty, "assuming of course that this can be accomplished by such explicit reservations and modifications as will secure our absolute freedom of inadvisable committments and safeguard all our essential interests." No plan is offered for an "association of nations."

When America entered the war, it was with the understanding that we were staking all in the interest of humanity and democracy and asking nothing in return. Interpretation of the Harding message would indicate that we, as a people, have undergone a great change and that we now seek everything for ourselves, but are willing to give nothing, so far as the other nations of the world are concerned. Whatever the administration may have in mind to be ultimately worked out and which does not now appear in the open, it is at least hoped that the United States will be able to so define a position and work out a plan that will spare us from being made the object of the combined hatred of the other nations.

President Harding calls for tax revision so that burdens may be removed; instant enactment of an emergency tariff; reduction of costs of operation of railroads and consequent lessening of rates; strengthening of laws for Federal aid for good roads; a bigger and better merchant marine; development of aviation for civil and military purposes; more and better hospitals for the care of wounded and disabled soldiers; measures for public welfare; a pronouncement against lynchings; disarmament, when other nations take the same position, but maintenance of agencies of national defense such as may be necessary; orderly funding and gradual liquidation of war debt; national budget system; more business in government; fair prices of farm produce.

Thoroly analyzed, despite its lack of positive pronouncement on themes of the greatest importance to the country, the message is, however, one that at least on the face of things holds out hope for adjustment of conditions the most bitterly complained of.

BAD NEWS FOR PESSIMISTS

THOSE who have persisted in calamity howling for the last few months are handed a severe jolt by business experts of one of the world's biggest financial institutions in a survey of conditions as they exist today. Times will be better, in fact are better now, say these experts.

Following is a quotation:

The second quarter of the year opens with an appreciable gain in business confidence. Irregular and contradictory as they may at first glance appear, the reports from various sections of the country are on the whole indicative of an improved situation. Certainly conditions are no worse than they were a month ago and, indeed, the element of greater stability is so pronounced as to lead to a prediction that before mid-year a definite turn for the better will be demonstrated. There has been a slight increase in railroad traffic, and an improvement in the railroad labor situation because of the policy of retaining efficient workers only. Automobile manufacturers are reopening their plants. Building operations are on the increase. Farm products are being disposed of under pressure of a large new crop and the inability of the banks to carry both the hold-over and the new products. Secretaries Hoover and Mellon, backed by Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board, have told the cotton raisers that they cannot expect the Government to assume all the risks of financing the exportation of cotton, and it appears that something like personal initiative is to come to the rescue of the unhappy situation in the South. The trend of prices continues downward in the wholesale markets, but consumers still complain that, with one or two exceptions, retail prices for food and clothing do not represent these recessions in manufacturers' and jobbers' costs.

This is a time to be optimistic, not pessimistic, a time to get every shoulder to the wheel and push ourselves out of the depression which has set in.

AMBASSADOR MORRIS

RESIGNATIONS in the ambassadorial service of the United States government are coming thick and fast, says the Dayton News. Roland S. Morris, who has been representing America as envoy to Japan, is one of the latest to ask to be relieved. He has served in Japan for four years in a manner most creditable to his country and equally acceptable to the Japanese. His task at no time has been an easy one. With jingo talk in both the United States and Japan the diplomatic representatives of each nation at the other's capital has been sorely tried in his efforts to destroy the spirit of suspicion and hatred which in a sense has been brewing. Ambassador Morris plunged boldly into his work during the year America entered the world war. He has been confronted since that time with every manner of problem. How conscientiously and faithfully he has served is best shown by the cordial relationships between the Japanese government and the American embassy. Morris has endeavored to show the United States to the Japanese not as the warlike, chip-shouldering giant which is yearning for a fight, but rather as the very good friend of all nations which are conducting their affairs under the orderly processes of good government. In relinquishing his post in Japan Mr. Morris returns to his own country the best informed man in the world as to oriental thought. This is important information to possess.

"HERE IT IS; KEEP IT CLEAN"

YOUR NAME

MACKINNON

By PHILIP FRANCIS NOWLAN

VARIATIONS—MacKinney, MacKinning, MacKinven, Love.

RACIAL ORIGIN—Scottish.

SOURCE—A given name.

The Gaelic form of name of the Highland clan from which these family names are derived is "Clann Mhic Fhionghain."

It is, apparently, one of the oldest of the Highland clans, belonging as it does to that group of clans which had their origin in the ancient Clan Alpine, no longer existent as such, and tracing back to Kenneth MacAlpin, whose progenitors came over from Ireland with the Dalriadic Scots, and who became the first king of a united Scotland. The chieftain from the clan takes its name was Fingon, a grandson of Gregor, who was a son of this king. The clan name appears in various ancient documents written in other tongues than Gaelic as "MacFingon," "MacFiungon" and Mackinnon," the last named spelling having become the dominant one in more modern times.

The forms MacKinney and MacKinning are variations developed in the lowland among members of the clan who settled there.

In Kintyre the name became MacKinven, whence developed a fanciful rendering in Gaelic, owing to the similarity of sound of Maclonmhuinn (pronounced "Mac-Invin") which in turn has been Anglicized by its fanciful meaning into "Lovegson or Love.

JUST FOLKS—BY EDGAR A. GUEST

CHEERFUL SERVICE

This is the path to glory, this is the road to fame,
Clean hands after the toil of day and a record free from shame,
For he who comes home in honor is building a worthy name.

And whether the task be mighty that unto man's lot shall fall,
Or one of the humbler duties, or the prize be great or small,
In the court where all men are tested, shall matter not at all.

The great and the low must answer, at last when life's sands are run,
Not by the gold they gathered and not by the laurels won,
For the road to eternal glory is only by work well done.

And those whom the world will honor, must face it with heads erect,
Must spurn all the crooked byways and keep to the path direct,
For cheerful and manly service is the way to the world's respect.

WHAT THE STARS PREDICT

Only the morning hours of this day are lucky.

The South will be greatly disappointed over the President's appointment to a high office.

The stars prophesy that a famous leader will end his career, and that labor difficulties may result.

The recent eclipse of the sun indicated the corruption of fruit-bearing trees in many parts of the country.

Persons whose birthday this is, should avoid going to law during the coming year, and should refrain from making important changes in their business.

Children born today will be too artistic to succeed in business unless carefully guided.

FORDS RUN 34 MILES ON GALLON GASOLINE

Start Easy in Coldest Weather—Other Cars Show Proportionate Savings.

A new carburetor which cuts down gasoline consumption of any motor and reduces gasoline bills from one-third to one-half is the proud achievement of the Air-Friction Carburetor Co., 837 Madison St., Dayton, Ohio. This remarkable invention not only increases the power of all motors from 30 to 50 per cent but enables every one to run slow on high gear. It also makes it easy to start a Ford or any other car in the coldest weather. You can use the very cheapest gasoline and half-kerosene and still get more power and more mileage than you now get from the highest test gasoline. Many Ford owners say they now get as high as 45 to 50 miles to a gallon of gasoline. So sure are the manufacturers of the immense saving their new carburetor will make that they offer to send it on 30 days' trial to every car owner. As it can be put on or taken off in a few minutes by anyone, all readers of this paper who want to try it should send their name, address and make of car to the manufacturers at once. They also want local agents, to whom they offer exceptionally large profits. Write them today.—Adv.

Caused By Irritated Bladder. Relieved By Simple Remedy For This Dayton Man.

This letter was taken from the Dayton Daily News. Mr. Wm. D. Ostemeyer, 326 E. Second Street, says: "My bladder caused me to get up many times at night and also inconvenienced me as often as every 30 minutes in the day. After taking a few lithiated buchu tablets my bladder is perfectly normal. They also relieved a very lame back for me. It gives me much pleasure to tell my friends about these little tablets."

Lithiated buchu acts on the kidneys and bladder like Epsom salts do on the bowels. It cleans them out. It is not a patent medicine, as the formula is on the package. The tablets cost 2c each. This price makes it possible to place in the formula several high-priced drugs, which are necessary for prompt relief. Very likely you have never taken anything like this remedy. Try a few doses for backache, scalding, scanty or high colored urine, frequent desire, gravel and other deposits of the bladder.

You can get lithiated buchu, Keller formula, at Hunter's Drug Stores and drug stores everywhere.—Adv.

Mrs. Dot Cox, 8 No. Market St., Troy, O., says in her own home paper, the Troy Miami Union: "I used Sorbol Quadruple a year ago and it has completely relieved me of a terrible inward goitre. I was so short of breath, could not use my eyes for reading or sewing, could not stoop over. I was so nervous and my heart would feel like it would jump out. My throat would throb and choke me. Could not wash or sweep at all. Was in bed part of the time. I have been doing my washing, and all my own work since last summer. My whole system is stronger and my throat does not bother me at all. KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

TODAY'S HEALTH HINTS—BY DR. WM. BRADY

WATER, WATER EVERYWHERE

..From the neck up man consists of a mixture of about two-thirds bone and one-third water and fat, with just a dash of gray matter in some cases. From the neck down, aside from the bony skeleton, more than two-thirds of the body weight is water.

One cannot change the amount of water in the body by merely drinking more or less water with that intention. But the character of the food taken has much to do with the proportion of water in the tissues. Edema (formerly spelled oedema) is the medical term for swelling of the body or any part of it, caused by effusion of watery liquid into the tissues; such as the general edema of certain cases of heart disease, nephritis and other conditions, commonly called dropsy. The war edema which occurred among under-nourished Europeans was found to be curable by a more nutritious diet or by rest without change of diet, rest in bed restoring the balance between intake and output of energy. But this is no argument in favor of more rest for the obese.

The lack of milk in some countries during the war interfered with the Karell regimen for heart disease and other conditions associated with boggy tissues. Some very good substitutes were devised. R. Isenschmid reports in Schweizerische medizinische Wochenschrift (consult a nose and throat specialist if this causes alarming symptoms) some substitutes that have proved very successful.

A quart of water or fruit juice may be used in place of the skimmed milk; together with a portion of potato, cooked without salt, taken in five portions thru the day. Another substitute for Karell regimen is the banana regimen, taken much the same as the potato regimen. But banana is a great deal more nourishing than potato. Isenschmid observes that all these regimens are poor in salt; and a restriction in the salt intake has always been recognised as helpful in ridding the body of an excess of water. He mentions one patient with extreme edema, rebellious to Karell regimen plus medicines, who lost in eleven days about thirty pounds of water on a diet of a quart of milk, six ounces of bread buttered, and two eggs daily— no salt.

People whose diet includes excessive proportions of carbohydrates, such as prepared cereals, denaturized white flour breads, sugars, cakes (and that means most of our flat-dwellers), are usually waterlogged and physically deficient for that reason. Such a diet, like a vegetarian diet, creates an abnormal craving for salt. Too much salt causes a retention of too much water in the tissues, not necessarily edema, but an abnormally large portion of water.

There is a marked retention of water in the tissues in all feverish states.

The carbohydrate foods are especially suitable for supply dmands on muscle energy, which is one reason why children should not be denied sugar and wholesome sweets. But sedentary folk, as a rule, consume too great a proportion of this kind of food, which makes them waterlogger.

"SOWING THE WIND" IN MOVIES HERE SOON

North Stock Company Makes "The Brat" a Thing of Beauty and a Joy Forever

Ethel Clayton is Exquisite in "The Price of Possession"—Movie Directory

(By ESTHER WAGNER)

ON EXCITING little drama with a decided melodramatic element, is Anita Stewart's new picture "Sowing the Wind." Many will remember the crudely staged melodrama, with its exaggerated acting and bombastic speeches like "Rags are royal raiment when worn for virtue's sake." Along came the movies and took audiences from these exciting melodramas, because the movies could do it better and at a lower price.

This movie's main theme is that virtue is always good and vice is always bad and in that it is truthful, Anita Stewart has one of the finest roles in her more or less successful career and gives to the production several little comedy touches that are delightful and at the same time capable o ftaking away much of the unreality of many of the situations.

"Sowing the Wind" comes to this city soon.

"The Brat"

OLIVER MOROSCO'S well known play "The Brat," becomes a thing of beauty and a joy forever in the capable hands of The North Bros. Stock Co., which company is presenting this well known little drama at the Orpheum theatre this week.

The story of "The Brat" is pretty well known, how an author, in search for a "type" for a new story, visits the night court and brings home a comical little orphan who is known as "the brat."

And the brat proves ideal "copy" for the famous author, at that! But when the novel is completed and the author plans on letting her go back to life at the "Hippydrome," the younger brother objects, because you see he loves her. But "The Brat" is deeply in love with her benefactor, or rather, she thinks she is, until Steve, the younger brother leaves for the west to make good. The culmination of the story is a happy one.

In the movie version of "The Brat" the title role was enacted by Nazimova who, I remember, did splendid work. But the stage production has it all over the movie version in that the humorous street dialect of the little waif can be enjoyed by the audience. Miss Besse Darnis, as the aforesaid orphan, is adorable all thru the play. She's youthful, cuddish, lovable, and you're as glad as you can be when she find that the man she loves also loves her.

The role of the author is ably played by E. Garfield Gast, while the role of the never-do-well brother, Steve, is easily and effectively taken care of by Charles Richards. John P. Kane, as the butler, is a splendid performer, Rosamond Thompson is good as Jane, the catty partner of the author, who loses out. Marie Monroe gives to the role of Angela, the girl who finally lands the much-pursued author, a slightly insipid quality; Ed. MacMillan as the Bishop is right there, all of the time.

The piece is nicely costumed and staged; the characters are excellent, and in presenting "The Brat," the company is offering one of the nicest little comedy-dramas ever presented in the Market-st theatre.

"The Price of Possession"

BEHOLD Ethel Clayton, the exquisite, and Rockliffe Fellowes, the greatest caveman in captivity, in mortal combat!

She, because of papers found in her dead husband's possession, believes she is Lady Barston, of Barston Manor. He, with a birth certificate that is all it should be, appears on the scene to prove that she is usurping his lawful heritage.

"Possession is nine points of the law," says the lady, clinging desperately to her new belongings. Poor dear, she had had such a hard life of it before she reached Barston Manor. The real heir, however, cares nothing about the lady's hard times. And so the battle is on.

It's not merely a battle of wits, either. Mr. Fellowes does not hesitate to grapple with the lady for his certificate, which she has snatched from him unawares. Miss Clayton, for a brief moment—bites! They both leap into the ocean from a second story window and Mr. Fellowes does a nice little rescue act. That their clothing appears quite dry does not belie the fact that they were in the water. You saw 'em.

Of course, the outcome is just what you think it is going to be, so there's no use in telling it.

With the exception of the apparently dry clothing, the picture has been well photographed, directed, etc. Miss Clayton is lovely, as usual. Mr. Fellowes is the brute man with the undercurrent of tenderness. You like em' that way, don't you? Others in the cast are only background.

Nice picture, "The Price of Possession." It is appearing at the Faurot.

Faurot—"Turn to the Right"

IN the original New York-Chicago production of "Turn to the Right" which John Golden will present at the Faurot Opera House on next Saturday, April 16, matinee and night, are several players who have appeared in the play since its opening night and have registered more than 1000 performances in their respective roles. This explains the success of the producers in maintaining the elements of smartness, charm and splendid acting which have made "Turn to the Right" a vastly better attraction than is usually sent on a general tour of the country.

The play itself combines wholesome fun and tender heart interest with a deftness that stirs memories of Winchell Smith's earliest plays, "The Fortune Hunter," "Polly of the Circus" and "Brewster's Millions," and quite naturally, the combination of a good play and a good company has attracted capacity audiences everywhere on tour.

Among the vetern principals who will be seen here in "Turn to the Right" are Charles W. Goodrich, Maude Huntley, Jane Ellison and Joseph Striker.

The advance sale will open on Friday morning. Orders are now being received.

MOON WILL SEE ROMANTIC WEDDING

Joaquin Miller to Wed Her "Lily White Love" Soon

Child of California Bard Lives in Color Cycles, She Says

"Ecstasy of high vibration,
Electric cause of all creation,
Radiance of blinding bliss,
Before love's storm—the intense kiss."

—JUANITA MILLER.

By WILLIAM G. CAYCE.

OAKLAND, Cal.—(Special.)—When the April moon mounts high in the heavens on the night of April 22 the man in the moon will take a squint at the doings down amid the timbered slopes of "The Hights" and smile broadly.

For amid the trees on the night of April 22, between the mystic hours of 10 and midnight, Juanita Miller, poetess and daughter of Joaquin Miller, famous California poet, with all of the ceremonials of the ancient Druids, is to wed her dream lover, "Juan" Miller.

And the man in the moon will chuckle because, seeing all and knowing all, he knows that Juanita and John—as he appears in the marriage record—were prosaically wedded by a Justic of the Peace at Redwood City last December. This prosaic procedure grated on the artistic sensibilities of fair Juanita, hence the romantic consummation 'neath the full moon of her "lily love."

And the man in the moon is also likely to risk a permanent squint in getting a good look at the wedding party, for Juanita is to wear a wedding dress which, she says, "was made in the hills of lilies, tears and moonlight."

The marriage of "Juan" and Miss Miller will culminate a love affair which started years ago when John Miller visited "The Hights" as a sightseer. The wedding will also complete a cycle of color periods thru which Juanita said she was destined to live when a baby. Her marriage to Miller, she says, is the "white," or final episode of the color periods thru which she has lived her life.

TRIAL MARRIAGE FAILED

Juanita has been married before. Two years ago, likewise in the fullness of an April moon, she contracted a trial marriage with John Reavis, wealthy mining engineer and bungalow owner in the Philippines. But they could not live together happily, so after a few weeks Reavis left for a trip to Texas and Mexico, which ended in the Philippines, where Reavis also had a "first love," according to Miss Miller. This "red love," as Juanita called it, ended with his departure, and in a letter received recently she was informed by a friend that Reavis died last June. This fact has not been completely established, but Juanita says, "I know it must be true."

When interviewed at "The Hights," above Oakland, a show place which overlooks the "Golden Gate," five great cities and seven counties, Juanita related the facts of her life from babyhood, taking in every period of her color cycle up to the return of "Juan," and the time of the wedding to her first, or "lily love." "The Hights" was built by Joaquin Miller when in the prime of life, and consists of several small houses, now tumbledown and decaying.

SERVES WINE OF THE 70'S.

Juanita is not only a poetess, as her father was a poet, but is a housekeeper of no mean ability, and a master of the culinary art. Tho living the "simple life" her hospitality is famous, her guests being served cake and candy of her own making and wine of the early 70's. Juanita's little house, a two-room, rugged affair, built for her by her father, is also in a state of decay. In one room Juanita sleeps and does her cooking, while in the other, which is furnished mostly with materials obtained from nature's forest she entertains guests. It was in this room, decorated with sweet smelling wild flowers she had gathered from the woods, antique furniture made by her father, a candle lamp, walls of burlap, a smal triangular table made from limbs of a tree and a floor that was bare, that the interview was given. Juanita sat on a box covered with the skin of a wild animal.

"It was years ago," said Juanita, "that my life-story came to me. I seemed to fall into a trance while composing poetry. When I came to—there was the complete story of my life, all written out. 'Twas a wonderful story. It told of the "red love" from the Philippines. It also told of the "lily white" love that would follow, of how my first lover would come suddenly into my life—leave me for a while—and return triumphantly—which would be the final episode in my heart life. And it has all occurred."

Juanita told of how when a baby she had seen her father playing with a diamond ring, given him by the Prince Imperial, and that on seeing its changing colors, her first uttered word was "pree-chee," or pretty. The mother had seen the ring weave rainbows around the baby's head and knew by fancy that her child's life was to be a cycle of colors.

AN OPTIMISTIC FATALIST

"I am now in the 'indigo' period, having been thru all the others except the white, and am not certain of the white fulfillment, but have confidence, tho all the other episodes have been utter failures. But still I am an optimistic fatalist and each time while surmounting a disappointing episode I have made a rosary symbolizing my last illusion."

Here she led her interviewer to a crude wooden case on the wall and exhibited rosaries of every color, except white, which she had made at the conclusion of each period in her cycle of color. "I have learned to say in truth, 'Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven," she said.

To explain each period of the cycle and the significance of each, Juanita composed the following poem:

"Pink, tulips of curiosity; red, Indian lights of Camp Fire Girls' desire;
Cope de Oras (yellow,) of brief fulfillment; then green, of new hopes fire;
Blue, iris of ideality; violets, of modesty—
Indigo, poppies to lull despair;
White, lilies of an answered prayer."

In relating the history of her love with "Juan," and of how he came into her life, she said:

"When I was a little girl, studying in my tulip garden, I saw older people making love and kissing. I wondered when my tulip time was coming. Just then I kissed a tulip and a boy bounded over the fence and kissed me. That is the way I tell of 'Juan' first visiting 'The Hights.' I shall never forget that 'first' kiss."

THE ELECTRIC KISS.

To perpetuate the remembrance of the first kiss, she wrote this poem:

"Ecstasy of high vibration,
Electric cause of all creation,
Radiance of blinding bliss,
Before love's storm—the intense kiss."

But "Juan" soon left her life and for six years Juanita did not hear from him. In the meantime, she had her "red love" and married Reavis, which proved a failure. During the six years "Juan" had been traveling land and sea and had written her once, stating that "the bird was flying and did not have far to go."

Then "Juan" made his appearance at "The Hights" and claimed pretty Juanita as his astral wife.

FINDS HER EIGHTH BROTHER

Fate, the same which brought "Juan" out of the void and back to earth, has cast a semi-shadow across the mind of the pretty lass. She had a dream recently which depicted Juan as her "quarter or eighth brother."

"But even if it transpires that he is my brother I do not think it will matter. Cleopatra married her brother. I believe 'Juan' has always dwelt in my sub-conscious mind. In fact, I feel I have lived with him mentally the last ten years," she said.

John Miller is forty years old, ten years the senior of Juanita. He has sandy hair, like Juanita's father, and is an art photographer and world traveller. Juanita says. Juanita, short of stature, also has sandy or semi-brown hair and a smile that is fascinating.

The wedding wil be a glamorous outdoor party. A special altar has been constructed for the ceremony, which will be according to the old Druid custom. The wedding ceremonial is to be weirdly dramatic, a mixture of Indian and primitive tribal coloring.

"Juan" wil also be dressed in white, like his primitive bride, and will wear furs about himself, while Juanita will drape an Indian blanket over her shoulders.

KIDS WILL BE ROASTED

Two kids—not the human kind—are to be roasted at a sacrificial fire. The guests, who will number 200, are either "passional" persons or "intellectuals." The "passionals" will carry red lights, while Juanita and "Juan" will bear white lights symbolic of the "lily" hue of the union.

"He loves the hills and likes to climb, as I do and has promised never to insist on my leaving these hills.

After the many trials and disappointments of her "colorful" life, Juanita said she hopes for happiness in the white light, and has written this poem of it:

"As He rose so may we arise,
Washed white with tears to Paradise.
From our dead selves, from night to pass,
To light, like the flowers from dank grass."

SOUTH HIGH TO PRESENT ROBSON DRAMA, FRIDAY

(By ROSEMARY CHRISTEN)

LOVERS of the legitimate drama enjoyed seeing Elinor Robson in "Merely Mary-Ann," one of her best plays. However, Lima has never had an opportunity to see this play until now the Seniors of South high school will present "Merely Mary Ann" in the auditorium of Central high school, Friday, April 15.

It is an unusual comedy drama of London life, the plot concerning one Mary Anne, a London "slavey" who loves the money loving Laneclot. The lovers are confronted by unusual obstacles and how they finally overcome these and are united, makes the play an exceptional one. The Seniors are spending much time and energy on this production and ask the support of all Limaites.

The following compose the cast: Mary Anne, Elizabeth Harter; Laneclot, Edwin Fellows; Peter, George Deken; Herr Brahmson, Paul Miller; Rev. Samuel Smedge, Gordon Sheldon; O'Gorman, Lee Britt; Jim Blaydes, Charles Ehrnsberger; Lord Tottingham, Allan Ireland; Mrs. Leadbatter, Dorothy Laughlin; Rosie, Veva North; the sister Trippet Kitty and Polly, Lavonne Irwin and Bernice Weaver; Lady Chelmar, Dorothy Benson; Countess Caroline, Viola Lee; Lady Gladys, Elizabeth Chapman, and Howard, Alfred Phalen.

There are few plays put on by amateurs that rank as high as this one and a good attendance will be encouraging not only to those presenting it but to all those interested in the welfare of Lima's young people.

Another play of interest scheduled for this week will be that of the College Woman's club. It is a farce comedy, "Cooks and Cardinals," and will be presented in the parish house of Christ Episcopal church Saturday afternoon. The cast is a splendid one and the play promises to be an enjoyable one.

FASHION SUIT FOR YOUTHFUL FIGURES

(By ELOISE)

The navy suit is always fashionable, regardless of how many smart grays and browns the suitmakers put out. And, of course, navy tricotine surpasses all other fabrics for suits. The smartest of spring garments are seen in the finest quality of tricotine and always this fabric is chosen in preference to all others, particularly when a dressy and serviceable suit is wanted.

This suit shown here is a very pretty style for the girlish figure. It is made with a plain, slightly gathered skirt which is trimmed with a deep border of silk embroidery with sunset medallions at measured intervals. These medallions are shot with gold threads.

The embroidered design is repeated at the edge of the box coat and on the bell sleeves. The coat fastens with a tie in the front and has a semi-tuxedo collar with deep revers. The model makes a charming going-away suit for the new bride or a very smart and simple suit for all occasions when traveling.

Mrs. Paul Agerter with Mrs. Frank Sealts as joint hostess welcomed the members of the Tuesday Luncheon Bridge club to a prettily apointed 1 o'clock luncheon at the Agerter home on W. Spring-st, Tuesday. Bridge occupied the afternoon hours, Mrs. G. M. McCullough holding high score.

Club will meet in a fortnight with Mrs. W. L. Reid and Mrs. Charles Herbert as hostesses.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mrs. J. W. Tucker opened her home on W. Elm-st, Tuesday to the members of the Tuesday Bridge club. Mrs. Anna O'Connor was successful in the playing and at 5 o'clock tea was served by the hostess. Mrs. Charles Killen was the only guest.

Club will meet in a fortnight with Mrs. Scott McGinnis, W. Wayne-st.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mrs. Frank D. Shumate, S. Cole-st, will entertain the members of the Thursday Luncheon Bridge club Thursday.

SHE IS LONLEY; WANTS A HUBBY

By SUSIE SMART

Dear Miss Smart:

I AM a young woman 25 years old and am very lonely. I don't go out very much and consequently I don't meet very many young men. I would like to be married. I know I could be happy then. One of my friends has told me something about a correspondence club and said that very often one makes some very nice acquaintances of some splendid young men. Do you think this would be alright and do you think it would be alright for me to write to a man whom I have never met?

LONELY GIRL.

No, indeed, I do not think it would be the proper thing for you to do, nor would it be safe, especially when you would attempt to do such a thing as this, having been influenced by the hope that some day perhaps you might be able to marry the young man. Probably there are "a few" happy marriages which were the outcome of such an acquaintance, but the majority of such cases simply result in disappointment and disillusionment. You can readily see that you would have no way whatsoever of knowing whether or not the young man would be a desirable person for a friend and much less a husband. One can read character to a certain extent thru letters but very often we are disappointed in the writer when we actually see him or her in person.

The best plan for you is to give your friendship only to those to whom you have been properly introduced. Also before accepting any attentions from any young man be certain there is no doubt in your mind as to his character.

There is no reason for you to be unhappy and lonely. Laughter and sunshine are two of the greatest and cheapest medicines in the world, as well as the best cure for the "blues" and loneliness. They are at your door and are waiting for you to make use of them.

You say you do not go out very much. You are making a great mistake. Everyone needs a little diversion. One becomes narrow minded and very often tired and disgusted with the world and everyone in it if they do not go out once in a while and enjoy some kind of entertainment and mingle with people. In the future determine that you are going to forget yourself and your troubles and get every bit of enjoyment out of life you can.

* * *

Dear Miss Smart:

Will you please tell me if it is alright to have a wedding ceremony without any attendants?

INQUISITIVE

Yes, if it is so desired, it is perfectly proper to dispense with attendants.

For the pleasure of Mrs. Ernest Bain who leaves in the near future for Kansas City where she will reside, Mrs. Alvin McCartney and Mrs. Charles McElroy arranged an enjoyable gathering at the McCartney home on W. Elm-st Tuesday. Five hundred was the diversion of the afternoon, Mrs. Clarence Miller holding high score and at the conclusion of play the hostess served a dainty two course luncheon. A color scheme of lavendar was detailed thruout in all the appointments.

Guests included Mrs. Clarence Miller, Mrs. Charles Alexander, Mrs. Frank Winkler, Mrs. Paul Sells, Mrs. Howard Webb, Mrs. Walter Ausberger, Miss Ada Ransbottom and the honor guest.

Mrs. Gus Holstine will entertain at 1 o'clock luncheon at the Hotel Norval Thursday.

FISH PIE

Fish Pie — Three tablespoons bacon fat or vegetable oil, one green pepper (chopped fine), three tablespoons minced mushrooms, one small onion (sliced very fine), three cups mashed potatoes, three tablespoons flour, one and one-half cup chicken stock, one teaspoon salt, one cup fish (salmon, crab meat, lobster or shrimp.)

Cook in the fat the pepper, mushrooms and onion until well browned, then remove these and add to the fat the flour and then the chicken stock and salt.

Stir constantly until the sauce thickens. Then add the fish and the pepper, mushrooms and onion. Line individual shirred egg dishes or ramekins with mashed potatoes and fill with the fish mixture. Then cover the top of each with a layer of mashed potatoes, smoothing it down carefully with a wet spoon.

Brown in the oven. Serve in the same dish in which it was baked.

THE UNLATCHED DOOR

By LEE THAYER

Hammond Rutledge, whose eyes had been striving to pierce the dim shadows of the back room, turned a startled glance upon O'Malley and half rose from his chair. O'Malley shook his heads lightly, enjoining silence, and the old voice went on:—

"So late, so late! Oh, my poor laddie, my poor bairn!" The tone changed to one of hate and scorn: "The scarlet woman, decked with gold and precious stones and pearls, having in her hand the golden cup full of abominations—"

"Anna!" he cried. "Poor old Anna! Is she there? What is it? How—"

"It's an invention of my own," O'Malley spoke rapidly. "Clancy got the records. She knew nothing about it. He's been getting them for the last two weeks and we've pieced them together. We've suspected for some time, but he only got the conclusive ones this morning. Listen."

From an indistinguishable murmur the old voice rose again:

"Watch! Watch and wait—Hush, there they are'—Ah, look at her, the traitress' How long, O Lord, how long'—Her poison is like the poison of a serpent. If the poor laddie tried to reason with her she would not hear. She's like the deaf adder that stoppeth her ears.

"Look. What is that little paper he's giving her. And she smiles at him—Mischief' I can tell it by their faces—Ah-h-h'

Then, very slowly and solemnly:

"Send forth thy sickle and reap, O Lord, for the hour to reap is come.

"The sickle—here, in the drawer, at my hand—God has appointed me his servant, to render unto her double according to her works: in the cup which she mingled to mingle to her double—As the wax melteest before the fire, so let the wicked perish'"

"The great wine-press of the wrath of God—and there came out blood from the winepress—it is done.—Thou has destroyed the wicked—Dead—Dead—in her full strength, being wholly at ease and quiet—Sleep—Sleep.

"Roses roses red as blood for the scarlet woman.—Fold her hands—they shall work no more evil.

"What's this? His card—the lover's card—and on the back—ah, a test'—You will not meet your lover now

"Hush. No noise.—No one will know—The knife—back in its place. No, wash it first.—That's right—and now, to bed.—Softly, softly."

Another sigh

Again silence fell upon the listeners No one moved or spoke.

Suddenly the voice was lifted on a high note of agony and appeal:

"God' God'" it cried, and again the word, 'God!" in a terrified groan.

"Save me O God, for the waters are come into my soul I sink in deep mire where there is no standing." Then in a awe-struck whisper: "Vengeance is mine, I will repay, saith the Lord—I took the weapon into mine own hand' Ah, woe is me' I took vengeance upon myself! Forgive me, O God' Forgive'" the voice wailed "Consider and answer me Lighten mine eyes, lest I sleep the sleep of eternal death!"

"Stop her, stop her'" Rutledge cried in agony, springing forward. "I can't bear any more' She did it for me'—Oh Anna, Anna—"

O'Malley caught his arm. "She found peace at last," he said softly. "Listen"

Faintly and tremulously the voice came again with the trusting tone of a little child:

"Now I lay me down to sleep.—If I should die—before—I—wake—'

A faint murmur and all was still.

Rutledge looked appealingly at O'Malley, who nodded quietly.

"She died this afternoon," he said

Stillness lay upon the room like a heavy pall when Capt. O'Malley ceased speaking The little group of listeners had been deeply affected by the recent disclosures, each in his own way, and Hammond Rutledge most of all. His head was bowed in grief and for a long time he sat silent At last he spoke sadly.

"Poor old Anna!" he said; "poor demented faithful old Anna! Who could have thought—" He paused an instant, then with a slight change of manner went on "I went back to the house on that fatal night. I didn't tell you about it because there seemed to be no need. It was early, about half-past ten. I was troubled about—but never mind that. Anna was the only person I saw and I realize now that she must have been in a terribly excited state of mind. I was too much worked up, myself, to pay much attention at the time, but on looking back I can see that she behaved strangely, that her eyes had a curious wild look. It made little impression on me then and I haven't thought of it since. It is so difficult to think of one's dear old nurse in connection with a horrible crime, but an insane person is of course capable of anything. And she must have been insane even then, tho I saw no sign of it until the last time I saw her. And I never dreamed—I don't see how the possibility could have occurred to any one."

"It never entered my head, I'll tell you frankly," said O'Malley. "It took some one with a keener insight than mine to pick up the right thread. It was Peter Clancy.—Come here, Pete, lad.—Here's the real detective for you," he went on as Peter came thru the curtained doorway. "If it hadn't been for this boy, we might never have found the right track."

Dick Schuyler jumped out of his chair. "Why, Peter, old scout!—if you knew all this, why'd you let the captain put the screws on me the way he did?" He was half laughing with relief.

"Sorry, Mr. Schuyler," answered Peter, apologetically. "We weren't absolutely sure when we telegraphed you. And even after we were O'Malley insisted on having the whole thing cleared up. He was pretty mad at the way you'd put it over on us.—Weren't you, captain?"

"Yes, I was," admitted O'Malley, "and I thought this young man deserved a lesson—"

"Oh, I've learned it, all right!" said Dick, laughing outright this time. "I'll tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, from this time on, swelp me!"

"You and Miss Wentworth having been so mixed up in the case, we thought it would be only right to have you here at the finish," said O'Malley. "It was Pete's idea."

"There seem to be a lot of things, I don't understand," Rutledge broke into the conversation. "In what way was Mr. Schuyler implicated? And what does Nora—I beg your pardon—Miss Wentworth know?"

Nora had dried her eyes, for she had ben crying, softly, and now stood close beside Dick, her hand in his. With many a question and interruption, between them all they put Hammond Rutledge in possession of the fact.

"I begin to see," he said slowly, when they had finished, "but this doesn't explain Clancy's suspicions"

"You tell them about it, lad," said O'Malley.

"Well," began Peter, modestly, "the first jolt I had was just at the end of Miss MacLeod's testimony, on the morning after the murder, when Miss Nora fainted. You remember, Mr. Schuyler?"

Dick nodded and Peter went on:

"I don't know whether you noticed it or not, but the old lady was pretty much upset—and no wonder—and when I took the glass of water she had brought for Miss Nora her hand trembled so that it spilled all down her skirt. I wiped it off with my handkerchief and thought nothing about it but when I took the handkerchief out of my pocket a few minutes later, it was all stained red. I couldn't think where it came from for a second, and then I remembered. It seemed awfully queer, but I couldn't make it fit in, anyway I studied it. The old lady looked and acted innocent enough, and there was nothing out of the way in her room when I examined it I knew she must be pretty nearly batty on religion because there were stacks of tracts and things like that in her room There was one called 'The Seventh Commandment' that was all underscored and almost worn out with reading. I couldn't see why at the time and it wasn't till much later that it really put any idea into my old bean But then I got another jolt when Capt. O'Malley handed me the sheet of paper that Pendleton's card was enclosed in You tell em about that, O'Malley."

And the old man told them the whole story of his receipt of Pendleton's card and of Peter's subsequent trip to Fairfield, which resulted in the pursuit and final discovery of Pendleton.

"Pete and I both made up our minds, when we examined the evidence closely, that he had nothing to do with the actual crime," concluded O'Malley; "but we weren't absolutely certain which way the cat was going to jump, the clews were so mixed up, and we have kept Perdleton under surveillance till today. I don't mind telling you, for your personal satisfaction, Mr Rutledge, that the man's a wreck He was so afraid of what you would do to him if you found him that he dodged around from pillar to post, and when Fox found him he was ragged, and hollowed-eyed from lack of sleep, and more dead than alive. The man has suffered about as much as that sort of a man can and my advice to you is"—his voice was very kind—"to listen to what your old friend"—he motioned toward the other room—"said: 'Vengeance is mine,' and the rest of it—You know."

O'Malley paused a second, then in a different tone he said:

"I told Fox, the man who found Pendleton, to put the fear of God into him when he went up to New Hampshire today to call off his men. Wouldn't be surprised if Pendleton tried an ocean voyage for his complaint. Anyhow, I don't believe you'll ever see him again when Fox gets thru with him."

Rutledge, without speaking, gravely reached over and shook the captain's hand. The old man grinned appreciatively.

"Now, get on with your tale, Pete, my lad," he said and Peter resumed.

"It was that blank sheet of paper that made me sit up and take notice. I knew it was important, for, as O'Malley pointed out, the person who sent that card had a grudge against Pendleton and it would help a lot if we could find out who it was and what kind of a grudge it might be. And I knew I'd seen some paper like that somewhere, only I wasn't just sure where. But coming on the train from Fairfield, it came to me like a flash. I remember that Miss MacLeod's wastebasket was empty the first time I went over the house, but when we combed it over again with a fine-tooth comb after everybody had gone I thought I recollected the basket being half full of scraps, and among them a piece of paper of that queer, mottled kind.

"I began to piece things together as the train buzzed along and the very first chance I had I took the handkerchief I told you about (I'd kept it carefully wrapped up) to Van Dorn and Sawyer to have the stain analyzed.

"I didn't say anything to O'Malley yet and I went to interview Miss Dalton for him. While she was out of the room I found a queer looking paperCutter and the shape and size of it threw an awful scare into me. I swiped it, I'm sorry to say. I hope you'll apologize to her for me, Mr. Rutledge. I sent it back by registered mail as soon as I found the right weapon."

Rutledge frowned and nodded. "Go on," he said.

"Well, I went back to the house again and found the other half sheet of note paper in Miss MacLeod's waste-basket, just as I expected. I spent the night there going over everything, trying to imagine just what might have happened. I'd had the report from Van Dorn and Sawyer and it was human blood that I'd wiped off Miss MacLeod's skirt."

"You remember the drop of blood on the floor of the hall, near the stair wall, Mr. Schuyler, and the smear still farther down toward the pantry door? Well. I thought at the time that made it look like an inside job, because otherwise the murderer would have beat it out of the front door and not have gone that way at all. You see that, don't you?"

"Yes."

"So I figured it out that, supposing the old lady had had a strong enough motive (and her affection for Mr. Rutledge and her anger against any one who was injuring him might have been strong enough for almost anything especially if the poor old lady was off her nut,) then what could have been easier than for her to slip down the back stairs and watch thru the little window in the pantry door for Mrs. Rutledge to come home? I was nearly sure that Pendleton was with her and it wasn't hard to imagine what Miss MacLeod might have seen. There was a drawer just inside the pantry door, full of spoons and forks and knives. There were several carving-knives and among them this one."

He pulled open the table drawer and showed one, long, pointed and very sharp.

"What could have been easier than to take this out, and use it; and after it had been washed, who would know that it had ever been taken from its place?"

The group around Peter followed his story in breathless suspense

"We had it all cinched that the criminal was left-handed on account of the direction of the wound and O'Malley was sure that it was a left-handed man who did it because of these matches we found. They were yours, Mr. Schuyler, weren't they? I had my own reasons for not being so sure it was a man that did the trick; that smudge on the floor of the hall looked like the mark of a skirt to me, among other things. And afterward I found out that Miss MacLeod was left-handed."

"How was that?"

"Oh, simple enough. Rawlins was watching the house where she lived on the outside and she didn't know him from a hole in the wall, so I had him follow her whenever she went out. He saw her pay for things in a shop, over and over again, and she always took the money out and counted it with her left hand, besides using that hand in preference to her right for everything else, so we made sure there was no mistake. In the meantime Capt. O'Malley felt that we had enough to go on to make it a necessity to watch her closely, so I took over the inside half of the job. Gee, it was fierce work!"

"I took the room next to hers and made a hole in the wall thru to the paper on the other side and listened there night after night. She talked to herself, sometimes all night long, and pretty soon I was sure she was crazy. She prayed and prayed, and sometimes it was as if the god she prayed to was in the room with her. Then, about a week ago, she began to go back over things that had happened long ago, just as if they were going on then. She talked and waited for some one to answer and then went on again. It was spooky, I can tell you, because I knew that she was alone all the time. Then things began to come thru and I was sure had a bearing on what we were trying to find out and I brought the captain's Dictrola model that he'd just finished and cut a hole clean thru the wall in a place I knew would be hidden by her bed. It didn't have to be very big and she never saw it."

Peter sighed wearily and spread out his hands "And that's all, I think. We cut out of the records all the prayers and mutterings and made it as nearly a continuous thing as we could—and you know the rest."

"Fine work, Peter, old scout!" cried Dick, breaking the spell of awed silence. "You'll be one of the greatest detectives the world has ever seen' It was good of you to let us know the whole story. I'm sure Miss Wentworth would thank you, too, but it's all been a pretty rough experience for her, and I think I'd better take her home."

He glanced down at her tenderly, with a look in his eyes which never comes into the eyes of any man for more than one woman. "Come, "Come, dear," he said.

She returned his look with confidence and love. Then they quietly bade the others "good night," and left the room together. O'Malley held the door open for them and as they passed out the bright light in the hall fell upon their faces.

The old man closed the door softly and turned back to the room with a sigh and a smile.

"It's an ugly job we've got, Pete, and I, Mr Rutledge," he said, "and sometimes it seems like a regular nightmare But when you see people like those two going out, hand in hand like two litle children, well then—sometimes it seems as if the dream were thin and that all the ugliness and fear and hate were gone, and that the only real thing left was what those two have—truth and love Maybe—I don't know Anyhow, it's a great game, a great game—eh, Pete, my lad?"

THE END.

Sam Davis was popular with his staff. Everyone liked and admired this tall, gruff editor. He was a regular martinet for news and used few fancy handles when he gave orders, or was in the midst of his work. Gruff, unpolished, but honest and kindly was Sam, and it was known that he could get more work from his reporters, and good work, than any other editor in the city. He was just boss, and took a keen interest in all beginners, especially where they showed any marked talent for writing. Gwenda felt at home with him at once. Somehow or other he reminded her of her rough and ready father, back on the old farm. His eyes twinkled with the same kindly humor and understanding, and she felt that they would get on well together.

With a smile Mr. Davis motioned Gwenda to a chair, and for half an hour they sat and discussed the ways and means of young writers from start to finish. Gwenda told him of some ideas that she had thought of for special feature articles, and Davis nodded approvingly as he listened to the girl.

"Good, good enough," said he, stroking his mustache. "I like young people who have ideas," he told her, in his blunt way. "We need more of 'em round these newspaper offices. You just keep those under your hat, Miss Channing, and when you've finished doing these assignments for me, go ahead and work 'em out, and let me see how you handle all the interviews when you're thru. We'll make a star writer of you yet."

(To Be Continued)

HER OWN CAREER

By PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

THE FIRST DAY

"Gwenda's work on "The Daily News" began on the following Monday, and she was at her desk down on Park Row at 9:30 to the dot as is the way with enthusiastic beginners.

As the staff was not given to being particularly punctual, she found that she had a half hour or so on her hands, and filled it in with looking into all the rooms and offices, and even darting the printers' displeasure by poking her head and shoulders into the printing room It was fascinating to watch the huge machines swiftly pounding out the daily news, and she stood transfixed in the doorway for some time, lost in wonder at the sight before her.

"Why don't you come all the way in, Miss" said a cheery voice at her elbow, and Gwenda turned to look into the eyes of a very young printer with a very smutty face and an infectious smile. He beckoned to her cordially, and with a grin of pleasure she followed him into the holy of holies.

For the next half hour she watched for the first time the making of a morning newspaper Her guide who answered to the name of Willy, showed her all over the place, explaining every bit of the machinery to her as they went along Before she left the room Gwenda had made friends with several of the men.

Once back in the editorial department, she found that several of her fellow-workers had come in during her absence And her editor, Mr. Davis, introduced her to one and all of them, after cordially welcoming her to the forces of The Daily News, himself

FEW ARE SPARED THIS SUFFERING

No Need to Put Up With All Annoyances of Catarrhal Trouble, He Says

"Few persons are spared the pangs and annoyances, the constant embarrassments of catarrh sufferers—especially in such a climate as is ours," recently stated the Syrola representative who is explaining the famous medicine at the Public Drug Store. "While science knows no cure for this almost universal malady, there is a way of combatting it and driving it from the system, at least temporarily. That way is thru the use of Syrola.

"A high medical authority said: 'make strong the digestive organs and the system becomes strong.' In those words lies the story of Syrola success. It cleanses the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels so they perform their work properly. Food begins to assimilate as it should. The blood becomes rich and strong, and the catarrhal germ is destroyed.

"Syrola is for strength, for alert brains, bright eyes, rosy cheeks and hearty, healthy appetites. It is safe and sane—without taint of alcohol, opiates or habit-forming drugs. It is made from American herbs, by Americans and for Americans."

Syrola Native Herbs is being explained by the special Syrola representative at the Public Drug Store, 143 N. Main-st.—Adv.

PLAY BALL! 1921 SEASON STARTS IN LEAGUES TODAY

OLD KING SWAT HAS RIGHT OF WAY

WITH cheering thousands looking on, the baseball season was opened by the major and several of the big minor leagues to-day.

Old King Swat came back to his own with a vigor that proves beyond the shadow of a doubt the popularity and solidity of the national pastime.

Tho shaken by inter-league disputes and the 1919 baseball scandal during the Winter, and threatened with further bumps when the White Sox players and gamblers with whom they are alleged to have conspired come to trial, the nation's pet sport took the center of the stage as in other years.

Regardless of happenings in the past, baseball was welcomed back heartily by the great army of fans. The game itself is too great to be wrecked by the missteps of a few misguided and near-sighted players.

ADD OLD KING SWAT

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT

In the junior major league the world's champion Cleveland Indians helped the Browns pry off the lid at St. Louis; the reconstructed White Sox invaded Detroit; the hopeful New York Yankees took on the Athletics at the Polo Grounds and the Boston ed Sox met the Senators at Washington.

John McGraw's New York Giants helped the Phillies open the National League season at Philadelphia. The champion Brooklyn Dodgers clashed with the Braves in Boston; the Cubs, under Johnny Evers, entertained the Cardinals in Chicago, and George Gibson's snappy Pittsburgh Pirates met the Reds in Cincinnati.

PACIFIC LEAGUE WELL UNDER WAY

The American Association, the Southern Association and the Western League also opened their seasons today. The Pacific Coast League race, which started April 5, is just getting well under way. The International League will open its season a week from today.

With prospects of great races in the major leagues the club owners are looking forward to a season of unprecedented business at the turnstiles.

The Yankees and Cleveland Indians are sure to set a terrific pace in the American League from the very start, while in the national the Dodgers, Giants, Pirates and Reds bid fair to make the pace red hot from the word "go."

MINORS TO BE HEARD FROM

The minor leagues have finally recovered from the depression caused by the war. The National Association reported twenty-two minor leagues solidly organized and making preparations to open the season as far back as March 15. Before the Summer is over there will be some twenty-five minor organizations in operation, according to indications.

While major league players have the world's series as an incentive to urge them on toward winning pennants in their respective leagues, the minors this year, will have several "little world's series" to encourage them.

The American Association winners and the champions of the International League inaugurated a baby world's series last Fall. It will be staged again this year. In the South the winners of the Southern Association and Texas League pennants will get together in a post-season series.

As the fans settled back to watch the stars of the diamond pry off the lid they had many figures of interest to follow.

BABE RUTH CENTRAL FIGURE

The great Babe Ruth, home run king extraordinary, was the cynosure for all eyes—some 40,000 pairs—at the Polo Grounds, where he hoped to get away on his marathon after a new record by crashing at least one baseball out of the park.

The fans of St. Louis, from today on, will watch the work of their two champions—George Sisler and Rogers Hornsby, winners of the major league batting titles in 1920—as they go out to defend their laurels against the wiles of the pitchers.

Seven new managers hopefully sent their 1921 entries into today's games. They will be watched with keen interest.

WATCH NEW MANAGERS

Perhaps more interesting than any of the others is Ty Cobb, who is piloting the Detroit Tigers. Cobb's work as a manager will be of great interest and there are many who believe he will succeed.

The other new managers now in position with the exception only of George McBride, are:

Bill Donovan, Phillies.
Johnny Evers, Cubs.
Fred Mitchell, Braves.
Lee Fohl, Browns.
Hughey Duffy, Red Sox.
George McBride, Senators.

MAJORS PREPARED FOR WORK

For the most part the sixteen major league teams started the pennant races today pretty well prepared physically to hop right into a season of hot competition. As usual, there were pitchers and fielders with sore salary wings, and there were Charley horses here and there that slowed up some of the regulars, but the spirit of competition was as keen as of old and the spirit of the fans as happy and spasmodic as ever before.

Figuring that today marked the openings of the season in five leagues, the National, American, American Association, Southern, Western and Texas leagues, it was conservatively estimated that more than a quarter of a million fans trickled thru the turnstiles.

CAPACITY CROWDS EXPECTED

Capacity crowds were expected at most of the major league openings. The management of the Yankees confidently looked forward to a crowd of 38,000 to 40,000, for Babe Ruth & Co. had Greater New York to itself.

In Chicago, where John Evers is extremely popular, the Cubs were expected to draw upward of 20,000 with the Cardinals as their guests and with the champion Indians as an attraction the St. Louis Browns figured to attract a crowd equally as large. In other major league cities crowds ranging from 12,000 to 18,000 or upward were looked for.

The quartet of games in the American Association, with Indianapolis, Louisville, Milwaukee and Kansas City playing at home, was expected to draw close to 50,000, while games in the three Class A leagues—Western, Texas and Southern—figured to attract some 75,000 sun gods.

GAMBLERS BEWARE!

Everybody connected with baseball from Judge K. M. Landis down bristled with confidence and optimism as the curtain went up today. And with the beginning of the pennant races the campaign against gamblers also got under way, with private detectives sprinkled thru the stands in every major league park. The powers that be in the national game are determined to keep it clean henceforth and will leave no stone unturned to discourage and punish the element that succeeded in turning the heads of the eight indicted White Sox players in 1919.

KANSAS CITY TEAM SEEKS PENNANT

KANSAS CITY—Thoroly overhauled and materially strengthened in the pitching department and field, the Kansas City club will open the American Association season here Wednesday with Minneapolis.

Manager Otto Knabe is confident the team which ended a disastrous season last year in the bottom position, will be a formidable contender for the pennant this year.

THREE NEW PLAYERS

Three new players will appear in the line of tilts year. Zwilling, who was brot here from Indianapolis, will be at right, Cochran third and Butler, formerly of Milwaukee, at second base. Cochran retired from the game last year but is back in the Blue's lineup again and in pre-season games has displayed the same form that gave him a high rank among the A. A. batsmen of 1919.

"Bunny" Brief will be back at first base and Kansas City fans expect him to do some heavy batting.

HAVE MANY PITCHERS

This year's pitching staff will be composed of Ames, Nick Carter, purchased from the Chicago Nationals, Bono from the International league, Lambeth, Williams, Reynolds, Lambert and Horlsman.

Possibly two of these will be released or traded before the season gets well under way.

In the opinion of critics, three weak spots, will have to be bolstered up before the Kansas City machine is complete—left field, short stop and the catching department. A good first string catcher isneeded. Felix in left field lacks experience and Wright a youngster from the University of Missouri, is not regarded by Knabe as fully developed. Manager Knabe is after major league players to fill these places.

STATE TRACK TEAM HAS TO WORK

COLUMBUS Ohio State University track men are working like beavers these days as the result of the decision of officials of the Big Six track meet, that the Ohio school will have to score one-half of the total number of points contested for to be adjudged winners of the meet.

That means that the Buckeyes will have to score on an average, seven and one-half points or a little more in each event, to win the match.

FELL TO 30 POINTS

Last year, Ohio fell 30 points short of making 111, half of the points contested for.

Just how Ohio stacks up this year will be shown, it is believed, when Wesleyan and Denison are met April 23, in a triangular meet.

Of the non-Ohio State men who competed in last year's event, six first placers are back for the new season, three second-placers, and numerous other point scorers.

LOSE SEVERAL STARS

Ohio will be hard hit this year by the loss of several stars. Leidel, Holtkamp, Todd, Nemecek, Captain Steinhilber, Dickson, Anderson, and probably Mikesell, who together scored 21 1-3 points last year, will be lost to the squad this year.

CINCINNATI — Opening day here dawned clear and bright. A warm sun promised to send the temperature above 70 by game time and pack Redland field with over 26,000 fans. Luque and Wingo will form Cincinnati's battery with Adams and Schmidt working for Pittsburg. The game will be called at 2:30 p. m.

QUARTET OF OUTSTANDING NOTABLES WHO FEATURE OPENING OF BASEBALL

Here's four of the most prominent figures with the opening of the baseball season on western and eastern diamonds today. The three uniformed men are probably the greatest trio of sluggers that ever had hold of a bat.

Babe Ruth, the giant in the middle, expects to break his home-run record of last year when he smashed 54 circuiters. Since the close of the season last year he has added much fat, but claims that it will be no drawback to him in pounding out homers.

The little white haired chap in the circle is the mighty Judge Kenesaw Mountani Landis, supreme baseball arbitrator, whose duty it is to settle disputes and keep the game clean.

BABE RUTH OUT TO MAKE NEW RECORD

NEW YORK — Seventy-five homers in 1921

Babe Ruth started his quest for the new record here today when the Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics opened the local baseball season at the Polo grounds.

Thousands of New Yorkers vied with each other to get into the big stadium to see the Yanks and the "Big Bambino" swing into action. Ruth is the greatest drawing card in baseball, and tho he found it difficult to take off poundage accumulated during the winter and entered today's game still a trifle over weight, his attack on his own record of fifty-four home runs made last year will be watched with the keenest interest.

Many a bat has been wagered along Broadway on the outcome of Ruth's attempt to better his record. He modestly admitted when he returned from Cuba last winter that he "would like to make it seventy-five" this year. His chances of reaching that goal are doubtful, according to experts, but that he will pass his 1920 mark is the popular belief.

REDLEGS ARE MINUS OLD PLAYERS

CINCINNATI—When the Reds take the field for the opening game of the season here today against the Pittsburg Pirates, they will be a remodeled ball club from that which won the national league pennant and the scandalous world series in 1919.

Unless Ed Roush, center fielder and Henry Groh, third baseman, who are holdouts, capitulate and return to the lineup there will be only three of the Reds of 1919 in the game. They will be Pat Duncan in left field; Jake Daubert at first and Ivy Wingo behind the bat.

DAUBERT IS QUESTIONED

Even the appearance of Jake Daubert depends upon the condition he is in for playing as the veteran player did not go with the team to Texas for spring training. If he is not in shape, pitcher Rube Bressler, who is the handy man of the outfit will be perched on the first station. At second will be Louis Fonseca obtained from a western league.

Fonseca is one of the best finds of the playing season. He has clinched the regular job at second base, unless Groh returns, it being the intention of manager Moran to put Groh at second base if he signs up. But the veteran will have a hard time replacing Fonseca if at all. At the short field will be Sam Crane.

KOPF IS RETURNED

Harry Kopf, the shortstop of the team for three seasons says he has retired from the game. At third will be Sam Bohne, secured from the Seattle club of the Pacific coast league who is regarded as the equal of Groh at the "hot corner." Duncan will be in left field. Charlie See, will hold down center unless Roush returns. In that event See will be shifted to right, where once roamed Earle Neale, who was traded to the Philadelphia Nationals.

If Roush continues to hold out, the veteran George Paskert will be in right. Eller, Luque and Fisher are the only pitchers of the 1919 team left to Moran. Ring, Ruether and Sallee have gone.

The team as at present constituted has developed unexpected strength at the bat and the work of the infield has been high class. Manager Moran believes that he has gathered together an ambitious team, a club that will win far more games than it will lose. The fans believe that it is sure to finish in the first division and perhaps very high up in select circles should Roush and Groh be wearing the red when the gong sounds for the first battle.

BOSTON—Partly cloudy weather was in prospect for the opening game of the season here today between the Brooklyn Robins and the Braves. The temperature hovered around 60 degrees. Oeschger and Cadore were expected to do the pitching.

DETROIT—Skies were cloudy this morning and showers are forecast for this afternoon when the Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers are scheduled to play the opening game of the season.

MINOR LEAGUE CLUBS SWING INTO ACTION

CHICAGO—The familiar cry of "play ball" will echo in the American Association today when the eight clubs swing into action for the opening games of the twentieth annual pennant race.

The St. Paul club, winners of the 1920 season, will start with Milwaukee; Minneapolis will take the field at Kansas City; Columbus at Indianapolis, and Toledo at Louisville.

President Hickey is optimistic over the prospects of a successful season.

"The outlook for the American Association never was brighter," he said. "The teams that were weakest last season have been materially strengthened and we undoubtedly will have a much closer race."

The championship St. Paul club enters the race with apparently as much strength as the team that made a runaway race of the 1920 campaign.

With two exceptions the same managers who led their clubs thru the 1920 race will be at the helm again this season. Clarence Rowland, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, will pilot the Columbus club, while "Wild Bill" Clymer will guide the destinies of the Toledo club. Clymer managed Columbus last season.

HERE'S HOW THEY STOOD YEAR AGO

NEW YORK—Where will victory rest tonight when the opening games in the major leagues are finished and the big gala day crowds have filed out of the parks in the American and National leagues?

Last year the teams that won the pennants— Cleveland and Brooklyn got away to a winning start on April 14. The scores of 1920 opening-day games follow:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Boston 6, New York 3.
Brooklyn 9, Philadelphia 2.
Cincinnati 7, Chicago 3.
Pittsburg 5, St. Louis 4.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Philadelphia 3, New York 1.
Cleveland 5, St. Louis 0.
Chicago 3, Detroit 2.
Boston 7, Washington 5.

Season opened April 15.

Walter Pipp, of the Yankees, hit the first home run of 1920 in the American league. Eddie Roush, of the Reds, contributed the first homer made in the National.

BILLY SUNDAY LOOKS FOR BIG YEAR

NEW YORK — The New York Yankees, boasting the omst formidable array of players in the team's history, will open the major league season in New York today with the Philadelphia Athletics as opponents.

Carl Mays, the underhanded hurler, will do mound duty for the Yankees with Wallie Schang at the receiving end. Scott Perry probably will be Mack's choice for the hurling duty, with Perkins catching.

The usual festivities, brass band, parade and flowers will precede the calling of play. Mayor Hylan will hurl the first ball.

"Babe" Ruth, of home run fame, expects to start his circuit swatting early.

LUCK TO YOU, TY, SPIRIT OF FANS

DETROIT—With but one or two exceptions, familiar faces will appear in the Detroit line-up when the Tigers, under the management of Ty Cobb, make their initial appearance in the 1921 American league championship season, against the Chicago White Sox here April 13.

The new comers, whose chances of participating in the opening game appear bright, are Lew Blue, a first baseman, obtained from Portland, Ore., and Bassler, a catcher, also from the Pacific coast. Blue is scheduled to take Harry Heilmann's place the latter being shifted to right field. Bassler's chance of appearing in the first game of the season, depends largely upon the condition of Eddie Ainsmith, who reported late at the southern training camp.

INTEREST IS RAMPANT

The development of the Tiger team is being watched with considerable interest thruout the major league circuit, speculation centering around the managerial ability of Cobb, one of the master minds on the playing field.

Cobb is making his debut as a big league manager, leading the club of which he has been a member 15 years. The Georgian himself has studiously refrained from making ambitious claims for his first year. He has told friends, however, that he will not be disappointed if the team finishes sixth. Reports from the training camp have told of strenuous practice sessions, featured by lessons in base running, the hit-and run play, the hook slide and other departments of the game that Cobb helped to make famous.

HARMONY EXISTS

The reports also tell of utmost harmony among the players and all indications point to perfect team-work on the field.

With the exception of Oscar Stanage, catcher, and Pinelli, a third baseman, all of last year's veterans are on the Tiger's roster for the 1921 season. In addition Manager Cobb has a squad of recruit pitchers, Sutherland, Cole, Holling, Stewart and Middleton, and two new catchers, Bassler and Woddall, expected to aid Ainsmith and Manion back of the plate.

Howard Ehmke, or Rub Leonard will pitch the opening game according to early advices from the training camp. In the outfield will be Heilman, Cobb and Veach, while the infield will be in charge of Blue at first base; Young at second base; Bush at short and Bobby Jones at third.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—A weather forecast of showers and cooler threatened to put a dampener on the opening game of the world's champion Cleveland team and St. Louis at St. Louis today. Governor Hyde of Missouri accepted an invitation to throw out the first ball, and indications were that Stanley Coveleskie, the Indians' star moundsman, will oppose Shocker.

TRIS SPEAKER TO USE OLD LINE-UP

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Americans, world's champion baseball team, will start the season with the same line-up that won last year's baseball classic, manager Tris Speaker figured that the team that was good enough to go thru the critical stages of winning the American league pennant and later the world's series flag in two nerve racking fight-to-the-last-game clashes, is good enough to repeat this year, according to advices received from the spring training camp at Dallas, Texas.

All members of last year's team believe the Indians will win the pennant again this year, basing their judgment on the claim that the tribe has the best balanced baseball club in the country, both as regards batterymen, infielders and outfielders—well balanced defensively and offensively.

"BIG FOUR" PITCHERS

The Cleveland pitching staff this year will have the same "Big Four"—Coveleskie, hero of last year's world series; Bagby Caldwell and Mails, the team's sensational left hander. This quartette may be changed into the "Big Five" as reports from the south indicate that George Uhle, the big righthander is already showing mid-season form.

Coveleskie, already in great pitching form, is generally conceded to be the best spitball pitcher in the country; Bagby is said to have as great a pitching repertory as any twirler in the league; Caldwell is the tower of strength to the pitching staff and Mails is expected to repeat his wonderful performance of last year.

STRONG CATCHING STAFF

The Indian's catching staff, headed by Steve O'Neill is said to be as strong as any in the league.

Manager Speaker announces that Joe Evans and Joe Wood, outfielders, and George Burns, at first base, must be considered regulars as much as outfielders Jamieson and Smith and first baseman Johnston, for it is his intention to shift these players against right and left hand pitchers.

SOLDIERS AT CAMP HAVE A-1 TEAM

CHILLICOTHE—The Camp Sherman baseball season officially will open May 2, and if present plans are realized, the soldiers will have one of the best fields in southern Ohio to play on.

The diamond will be located in the northeast end of the camp. A grandstand is to be erected, and parking space for automobiles provided. The grounds will not be enclosed.

PLAY EACH OTHER

First game of the season will be between the tenth infantry and the quartermaster corps.

Teams that will make up the league will be the second infantry, tenth infantry, nineteenth infantry, third infantry, fortieth infantry and the quartermaster corps.

It is expected that more than 40 teams will participate. Uniforms have been ordered.

The camp representative team will not be completed until May 20. Capt. Mellon, athletic officer at the camp, said. It will be composed of the check players from all outfits.

COLONELS TO HINGE HOPE ON ESTELL

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—The Louisville Colonels enter the 1921 pennant race of the American Association with a club that looks slightly, but not considerably stronger, than the one that finished in second place last season.

The difference is in added pitching strength, the addition of Estell, who looks like a star, and in greater hitting thru the use of Tincup in left field, in place of Acosta and Ballenger at short. Ballenger replaces Wortman, who has retired.

HAVE 7 PITCHERS

The pitching staff is made up of Tommy Long, and Ernie Koob, lefthanders; Wayne Wright, Art Decatur, Roy Sanders, Herb Miller and Tommy Estell, righthanders. Of these Sanders, Estell and Miller are the new comers. Tincup will probably do no pitching this season, Decatur may not be able to come thru as he broke his shoulder blade last July and is not in good form.

The infield consists of Jay Kirke, first; Bruno Betzel, second; Pel Ballenger, short and Joe Schepner, third, with Tom Gaffney, a Philadelphia semi-pro as utility. The outfielders are Al Ellis, Roy Massey, Ben Tincup and Merito Acosta.

MILWAUKEE IS IN TRIM TO BEAT 'EM

MILWAUKEE, WIS. — Strengthened thru the acquisition of several players from the major leagues, the Milwaukee club of the American Association enters the 1921 pennant race today with the hope of finishing in the first division.

Otto Borchert, president of the club, spent considerable money for new players and also took a large squad of recruits into the southern training camp.

HERE'S NEW PLAYERS

New players added to this year's team include; second baseman 'King' Lear of the New York Giants; Alex McCarthy, third baseman, secured from Kansas City; Art Dunn, catcher, from St. Louis; Virgil Barnes, pitcher, also from the New York Giants; Eddie Schaack, pitcher, and outfielder Mellillo, both from Winnipeg; and pitcher Slaughter, from Martinsberg, West Virginia.

The infield has been raised four inches and put under rolling operations until the surface is as level as a billiard table, and other improvements have been made at the park. A new screen has been installed to prevent foul balls dropping into the stand.

TENATIVE LINE-UP.

LANDIS TELLS PLAYERS TO ACT FAIR

CHICAGO.—Play the game hard and square and take as many chances as before, Judge Landis, high commissioner of baseball, told members of the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals and a host of their admirers in an address last night.

"It is literally true to say that never before in any field of activity has anything been scrutinized as will our activity be scrutinized this season," Judge Landis told the players.

"We must put up with grandstand whispers about little misplays for a while but the characteristic spirit of fair play will soon snuff out that attitude." Judge Landis said he had received invitations from all the clubs but would attend the game here.

EXPECT BIG CROWD

One of the largest opening day crowds in history was predicted today for the opening game at Chicago between the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs.

Grover Cleveland Alexander was Ever's pitching choice with O'Farrell behind the plate as the veteran Killifer has a sprained throwing hand. The signing of Milton Stock, Cardinal third baseman, last night gives the Cardinals a strengthened lineup that is expected to offer the Cubs a real battle.

HOARDING MONEY POOR BUSINESS

Some Bankers Lose Courage and Cut off Borrowers

FEDERAL RESERVE IS HIGH

Instances of Profit in Panicky Times Are Cited

(By R. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK—(Special) — Have many bankers lost their courage? Are they acting in a way that makes business worse instead of better?

* * *

One banker says: "Yes." He declares there are bankers today who are nervously withdrawing funds from business purposes and locking it up in treasury certificates, liberty bonds and other non-business investments of unquestionable safety. Those bankers say "We don't like the way things are going. Business is bad and may become worse. We want to play safe."

* * *

Now, modern banks exist to facilitate commerce. The surest way to make business worse is for banks to show the white feather by drastically cutting down their advance to business borrowers and filling their vaults with non-business securities.

* * *

Bank reserves are accumulated for the express purpose of meeting emergencies. Yet when anything approaching an emergency arises and the need for drawing upon reserves springs up, bankers of a certain type begin hoarding cash instead of drawing upon their reserves. It is true that too much of this is going on today.

* * *

The rise in the federal reserve banks reserve ratio has been very notable of late. Saturday's return showed reserves of 53 1-2 percent, the highest in over two years, and no less than 10 per cent above the ratio existing a year ago. The reserve carried against federal reserve notes after allowing the prescribed 35 per cent reserve against deposits, has reached the astonishing ratio of 64 3-4 per cent Currency deflation has exceeded $500,000,000 in the last four months.

* * *

The time for bankers to pull in their horns was a year or more ago when everything was sky-high and speculation and inflation were running wild It is now time to exercise courage, to go the limit in helping legitimate business.

As a matter of fact many of the notable fortunes made in America were founded in times of pessimism, depression and timidity on the part of others.

* * *

Henry Clay Frick, who recently died leaving something like $125,000,000 (largely for public purposes) laid the foundation for his fortune when the panic of 1873 stampeded the men interested in the infant coke industry. Frick boldly persuaded Banker Mellon, of Pittsburg, to lend him $10,000 and bought the interests of his partners and others who showed the white feather. Within a few years Frick's coke properties were netting him a profit of over a million dollars a year.

One by one Carnegie's early partners deserted the steel ship at times when it appeared to be sinking. Little Andrew stuck to the bridge undaunted.

* * *

John D Rockefeller picked up some of the biggest bargains in oil properties during times of acute depression, when the price obtainable for oil was unprofitable. He had resolved to stick to oil thru thick and thin and when others of less backbone and less courage wanted to run away they found in him a willing buyer

E H Harriman took hold of the Union Pacific when nobody else saw anything in it but a bankrupt, money consuming, dilapidated property, not worth receiving as a gift And it was in the days when the stock was selling for a song that Harriman bought and kept on buying thousands and thousands of additional shares. A relatively poor man when he joined the Union Pacific he left about $100,000,000 when he died a dozen years later.

* * *

Bethlehem Steel Company's finances and credit were at one time so low that Charles M. Schwab had to endorse personally every obligation issued It would have been easier to give up than to go on. But Schwab was not built that way.

It is the original Rothschild who is credited with the axiom, "The time to buy is when every one wants to sell."

Twice were Wrigley's factories burned down and three times was his fortune swept away. Each time he jumped back into the ring, got hold of all the capital he could earn, beg or borrow and started all over again. In one year he spent $3,500,000 in advertising.

* * *

It is all right to "play safe" with reason, but it is all wrong for bankers to become cowards and adopt a short-sighted, miserly course calculated to make nothing safe. America won her present proud position by courage, not cowardice.

NEW YORK — Today's stock market opened with a renewal of yesterday's pressure against the rail and equipment shares. Overnight announcement of the cut in prices by the United States Steel corporation failed to stabilize those issues. The first few transactions resulted in losses extending from fractions to one point in Crucible, Bethlehem, Republic and United States Steel and also American and Baldwin Locomotives. Rails and shippings, especially Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and Mercantile Marine preferred, registered similar declines and foreign oils, notably Royal Dutch were heavy. Firmness was shown by International Paper, Utah Copper and a few specialties. Preliminary exchange rates on London reflected the tense British labor situation.

Shorts continued to attack the steels and equipments during the morning, effecting additional losses. Trans-continental rails were subjected to further depression and tobaccos were heaviest of the specialties, Sumatra forfeiting two points on the reduced dividend. Outstanding features of strength were confined largely to inconspicuous issues. National Biscuit, Remington Typewriter; Coca Cola, National Lead preferred and Harvester were among the various specialties to show gains of 1 1-2 to 5 points. International Paper added to yesterday, belated rise on the favorable statement of earnings. Call money opened at 7 per cent, despite an increase of supply.

Reflecting unsettled industrial and transportation conditions, steels and rails featured the further irregular reaction of prices in the stock market today. Sales approximated 500,000 shares.

The closing was heavy.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK—Raw sugar market was easier today with Cuban quoted by the committee at 4 3-4 cents cost and freight, equal to 5.77 for centrifugal. Sales of 20,300 bags of Cuban were reported on this basis. Uncontrolled sugars were offered at 5.64 cif. No further changes occurred in refined with fine granulated quoted at 7.65 to 8 cents. Trading in futures were confined to the July position which at mid-day was fifteen points net higher on covering and trade buying.

CAR COMPANY ENJOINED FROM BOOSTING FARES

CINCINNATI—On request of City Solicitor Zielonka and Street Railway Director Culkins, Judge Stanley Struble today enjoined the Cincinnati Traction Company from increasing street car fares May 1. The fare at present is 8 1-2 cents.

Culkins said he had received notice from the traction company that there was a deficit in the present operation of the cars. This, said Culkins, was the first step towards announcing an increase in fare. He disputed the company's claim, along the same lines he alleged several months ago, when Judge Stanley Matthews issued a restraining order, preventing an increase in fares. The first case has not been heard.

CHICAGO—With crop, economic and financial conditions all continuing bearish, the wheat market today developed fresh weakness. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to 1c lower, including May at $1.26 1-4 to 1.26 3-4 and July $1.09 1-2 to 1.10 1-4 were followed by additional setbacks altho transient rallies intervened.

In corn, there was much buying of May and selling of July, but all months tended downward with wheat. After opening 5-8 to 3-4c off to a shade advance, with July 60 1-8 to 60 1-4, the market worked irregularly lower.

Oats were relatively steady, starting unchanged to 1-8c down, July 37 3-4 to 37 7-8, and holding close to the initial range.

Higher quotations in hogs helped to sustain provisions.

The wheat close was heavy, 3c to 4 1-2c net lower, with May $1.22 1-2 to 1.23 and July $1.07 to 1.07 1-4.

Corn prices closed weak at 1 5-8 to 2 to 2 1-8c net decline, with July 58 3-4 to 58 7-8.

WINTER WHEAT AGAIN HITS THE TOBOGGAN; PRODUCE IS STEADY

Winter wheat again hit the toboggan Wednesday, when local millers cut the price 10 cents, to $1.20. Spring wheat was unchanged. This cut in the price of wheat also made flour cheaper. Quarter barrels were off 10 cents and eights were down five cents. Oats weak, with the price down two cents to 36.

Local produce was steady. Supplies still continued small and the demand good. Live stock was unchanged.

Strength in live poultry was the feature of the Cleveland market Wednesday. Heavy fowls rose from 32 and 34 to 35 cents a pound. Spring chickens were up to 33 and 35, as against 32 and 33 Tuesday. Small receipts and good demand are causing the rise. There is some feeling that the liquidation of poultry flocks, by farmers, has been completed and that the bottom has been seen.

The only other change in the Cleveland market was found among potatoes, Ohio and N. Y. whites were down from $1.65 and $1.75 to $1.60 and $1.70.

TICKER TALK

(Courtesy E W Wagner & Company)

New lows were again seen in all grains Wednesday. At the open there was a feeling that the lowest prices had been reached but with renewed offerings and weak buying the prices sagged to new levels. Canadians are rushing large shipments of wheat into the U. S. in order to escape the expected 25 or 30 cent tariff.

Lima Locomotive common sold at 74 1-8 on a 100 share sale.

Chicago hogs opened 25 cents higher. Top $9.35. Closed weak with half of advance lost., 7,000 left over. Pittsburg hogs steady, top $10.25. Sheep $6 and Lambs $9.25.

Estimated that Germany is the best buyer of American copper at the present time Between 500,000 and 1,000,000 pounds a day are being sold and shipped to that country.

Milwaukee cash wheat is four and five cents lower.

Producers and Refiners declared its regular dividend of 12 1-2 cents. A stockholders meeting is to be held to increase common stock to $10,000,000, to change par from $10 to $50, and to authorize $3,000,000 in convertable bonds.

Kansas City reports more sales of country wheat than at any time in the last 66 days.

Firm prices on midcontinent oil are expected from now on. The small refiners have again entered the market and while there will be no large up movement in price it is expected that declines, if any, will be of minor character. Sinclair and other big pipeline companies are said to be in a very favorable position to benefit from any rise in price and any increased activity in these fields.

RENTED AN AUTOMOBILE, FACE CHARGE OF THEFT

Edgar Montague, 21, of 1242 Forest-ave and Homer Horn, 21, of 1225 S. Main-st, were arrested late Tuesday by police on a warrant filed by Joseph Yoder, charging them with stealing his automobile.

The affidavits charge that the pair rented the automobile and did not return it at the time agreed upon.

Service at Home

They enable Lima people to buy or build a home.

He becomes a tax payer and a partner in the business of building up and beautifying his home town.

All this time the depositor is receiving five per cent interest and one hundred per cent security for his money.

PRICES SLASHED BY U. S. STEEL
Building Revival is Expected to Follow the Cut

NEW YORK — (By United Press)) — The decline in prices was given impetus today by announcement by the United States Steel Corporation of a reduction in steel prices effective April 13.

It was generally expected the steel corporation would soon announce a reduction in wages, to follow the price cut, but there was no confirmation of this and E. H. Gary, chairman of the corporation, refused to discuss it.

The slash in prices was necessary, it was understood, in order to revive trade and halt a buyers' strike. A drop in costs of building materials and a consequent increase in construction work is looked for as a result.

Price cuts were announced as follows:

Four by four and heavier billets from $38.50 to $37 per gross ton; slabs from $42 to $38 per gross ton; sheet bars and small billets from $41 to $39 per gross ton; bars from $2.35 to $2.10 per hundred pounds; plates from $2.65 to $2.20 per hundred pounds; structural from $2.45 to $2.20 per 100 pounds; wire rods from $57 to $48 per gross ton; plain wire base from $3.85 to $3; wire nails per kek $3.25 base, no change. Tin plate $7 to $6.25 per base box. The prices are f. o. b. Pittsburg.

The price cuts were announced very soon after Gary returned from a western trip, during which he discussed conditions with leading business men.

WALTER JACKSON, NEGRO HELD TO GRAND JURY BY JUDGE EMMETT JACKSON

"Sounds like I am binding my own brother over the grand jury," Judge Emmett Jackson said in criminal court Wednesday morning after Walter Jackson, 27, of Chicago, colored, pleaded not guilty to entering the Agerter & Blackburn hardware store, 210 E. Market-st, with intent to steal.

Jackson was found in the basement of the hardware store late Tuesday by employes who found him hiding behind some boxes, police say. He had been in the store earlier in the day, but did not buy anything, employes say.

He is held under bond of $1,000.

DIVORCED, LOGANS ARE REMARRIED

Dan Cupid Patches Up Wounded Hearts and All is Well

It seems to be a popular fad in Lima to become divorced and then re-marry.

Within the past few days two couples have enacted that role in Allen-co. Francis August Logan, 29, laborer, E. Market-st, and Lenola Maud Logan, 23, waitress, N. Elizabeth-st, divorced October 23. last, were re-married Tuesday evening in the office of Probate court, by Justice William H. Guyton.

Some weeks ago Maude Defendeffin and her husband, Bert, were re-married, their young child being the tie which bound them and caused the couple to be reunited.

Mrs. Logan filed her suit for divorce August, 20, last. The decree was granted on October 23, altho the case was heard October 2, but Judge Klinger took the matter under advisement. She was granted custody of their only child, Emma Estella, 5, and given $500 alimony and $75 for attorney fees.

Logan was order to pay $4 a week until the child was 18. The re-marriage annuls the court order in this respect. Mrs. Logan is the daughter of Loran Gephart, Auglaize-co. Her husband was born in Bath-tp.

J. C. Herr, Mrs. Emma Dinham, et al, Defendants

Mrs. Emma Dinham whose last known place of residence was Chalisgaw, Kandish, India, will take notice that on the 18th day of March, A. D. 1921, plaintiff filed his petition in case No. 19707 in the Court of Common Pleas of Allen County, Ohio, praying for the partition and assignment of dower in the following described real property, situated in this county, to-wit

Inlot No. 1356 in Standifords Addition to the City of Lima, Ohio, Inlots No. 2901 and No. 2902 in Hughes Second Addition to the City of Lima, Ohio, Inlot 3019 and fifteen feet of the north part of Inlot No. 3020 in H. L. Brice's Addition to the City of Lima, Ohio, said fifteen feet of land lays adjoining the hotel property on lot No. 3019 and fronts on Main Street and runs east to alley one hundred eighty feet, along alley fifteen feet, Inlot No. 6083 in Jane W. Holmes' sub division to the City of Lima, Ohio, also fifty feet off of the north end of Outlot 262 in Dr. Ashton's Addition of Maplewood to the City of Lima Ohio. Said cause will be for hearing on and after the third Saturday following the sixth publication of this notice.

BABY FIXINGS

IT IS PRETTY HARD TO BE A BABY EVEN UNDER THE BEST CONDITIONS

But a comfortable baby is usually a good baby. Comfort for a baby means many calls on the druggist—not for medicines, but for proper soaps and powders for the tender skin; power puffs, lime water to keep the bottles sweet; a tiny hot water bottle for little cold feet; nipples that work without collapsing; electric baby food warmers, soft brushes, bath salts and soft fine sponges.

MUTT AND JEFF—ON THE LEVEL, HASN'T JEFF A SILLY SENSE OF HUMOR? By BUD FISHER

SHORT SHAVINGS

A certain society lady, who was not quite so young or so beautiful as she used to be, underwent an operation.

On her recovery she was assured by her friends that the operation had taken ten years away from her looks.

Laughingly, she complained one day to the doctor.

"If three hours on the operating table made her look ten years younger, why didn't you keep me five hours and made me into a girl again?"

"Five hours there, my dear madam," soberly retorted the doctor, "would have made you into an angel."

"Who is that man with the red nose you just bowed to?" inquired Mrs. Flatbush.

"Oh, he's a man I met out west," returned her husband.

"He is certainly not a prohibitionist, is he?"

"No, I never had occasion to ask him, dear."

"But how did you happen to meet him?"

"Well, we were traveling out of Milwaukee on the same train one night. He had a bottle and I discovered that I had a corkscrew."

"You have done well in life."

"I hope so."

"You seem perfectly willing to impart the secret of success."

"Yes," said the great man, "and I sometimes think it is the only secret in the world that nobody cares about hearing."

GIRLS! DON'T WORRY ABOUT THAT UGLY LOOKING RASH

A Few Applications of Lanolated Iodine Compound Will Quickly Heal It.

Lanolated Iodine, is the ideal method of treating a rough, sore, pimply skin. Unlike ordinary tinctures of iodine, it will not stain or blister. Just rub it in before going to bed, and in a few days you will wonder where that ugly-looking rash or those unsightly pimples have gone. Your skin should soon become smooth and velvety without a single blemish on it.

Don't worry another minute—start this simple treatment today. Go to any good drug store, and ask for a small jar of Lanolated Iodine. Use it tonight. You will surely be pleasantly surprised at the results obtained.

The soothing, healing and antiseptic virtues of iodine in this ointment are rubbed right in like a vanishing cream, where they quickly absorb the poisonous, dead or diseased tissues at the same time protecting and soothing the healthy skin.—Adv.

Simmons Says:

The ever-increasing popularity of this business has been thru the fact that our work has been satisfactory. We are now remodeling to take care of bigger business in the future. Now one word about shoe repairing—if you have an old pair of oxfords that you have discarded and which you think worthless, we ask you to either bring them in or phone us and we will show you that they can be made almost as good as new. We only use the best materials in our shoe repairing and our workmen render the best service in repairing. Shoes repaired while you wait and we call for and deliver every where.

OXFORDS—PUMPS—SHOES

Mid-Season Sacrifice of High-Grade Footwear Begins Thursday

One year ago The Royal Boot Shop opened for business in Lima handling only first-class Footwear at prices much lower than the buying public had been used to paying. We saved the customer from one to three dollars on every pair—The people responded liberally to our policy, and we have enjoyed a large business—We depended on a large volume of trade to put us over, as we sold on a close margin, and our customers have reaped the benefit—Were you one of them? And to show our appreciation we have gone through our large stock and slashed our already low prices to a point below wholesale cost. Read and Profit.
